S. DAVIES WARFIELD, head of the Seaboard Air Line, an admirable worker for his country, was buried yesterday in Baltimore.

His life of energetic work and building earned the respect and gratitude of his fellow citizens. And they learn with admiration the use to which he has left his fortune of several millions.

The money will be used to found a home for dependent aged women, in memory of Mr. Warfield's mother, who died many years ago.

A PROCLAMATION by the President fixes November 24 as Thanksgiving Day and mentions some things for which we should be thankful, such as "greater knowledge of the higher values of life" and "advancement in our physical well being."

It may also be mentioned that we are still OUT of the League of Nations, prosperity continues, high wages HAVEN'T gone down while the cost of living HAS gone down.

We may well praise the Lord, for we are fearfully and wonderfully fortunate.

EVERY prospect pleases. Foreigners buy from us, although our money is high in value.

In September we exported 32,745,000 bushels of wheat, 10,045,000 bushels more than in September, 1926. We got, this year, $12,955,000 more than for last year's September wheat exports. We should be grateful for our blessings.

MISS ALICE O'BRIEN, with a rich father, able to do as she pleases, wants "to hear African drums vibrating through the tropical night along the shores of the Congo," and to see "the weird ceremonies of an African witch docter."

Most interesting, the young girl thinks she is going to kill gorillas.

THAT a young human girl should want to kill gorillas is not unusual, but we should shudder if we heard that a young gorilla girl was coming north to kill human girls.

Miss O'Brien, of course, will not really kill any gorilla. Looking into the dark, strange face, she could not shoot. She will visit King Musinga, last of many African potentates, seven feet two inches tall, rich, handsome, with twenty wives—not many, in that climate.

THE powerful Bank of Italy hands to its stockholders a dividend of 300,000 shares; 250,000 other shares will be offered to stockholders at $180 a share and the Bancitaly Corporation will buy 250,000 shares at the same price. The Giannini Brothers, with their 165 different branch banks in California, buying banks rapidly throughout the country, are teaching old fashioned finance some new methods.

JACK DEMPSEY, who fights and lives to fight another day, can't pay his manager, Mr. Flynn, all he would like to because, says Mr. Dempsey, "I am not making big money and can't afford to give them everything they want."

Dempsey made about $500,000 in thirty minutes the other day and will soon make $500,000 in thirty more minutes or less again. But you can't call that BIG money, for a "heavyweight."

SOME clergymen that work hard for smaller pay will be inclined to quote:

"Now, in the names of all the gods at once,
Upon what meat doth this our Caesar feed,
That he is grown so great?"

Nevertheless, when you have become accustomed to earning a million dollars in thirty minutes, it is hard to be cut down to half a million.

THE heirs of an Indian rajah of Bhopal offer for sale in New York a collection of carved emeralds. One weighing 3,500 karats is carved to represent a Chinese woman. The price, should you want to buy something for Christmas, is $500,000. The value of the stone is largely spoiled by the fact that it is intricately carved instead of being polished and let alone.

That's what happens often to careful writing. Too much fancy carving when reasonable polishing would be better.

ANTHRAX CLAIMS FIRST N. Y. DEATH IN TWO YEARS

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—The first death from anthrax is reported in New York in two years. Peter Coyne, 52, contracted the disease, physicians believe, while handling hides from the Argentine. He was ill only two days.

FATALITY SCENE PAUL KROBINKOWSKI

Springing to his feet, apparently in a nightmare, while asleep on na porch, Paul Krobinowski plunged over a railing at his home, 25 Keibs way, and suffered fatal injuries. He fell 40 feet, as shown by the arrows above, and was dead when picked up.

6 Hurt in Fog Blinding City

The pall of fog that covered Pittsburgh and its environs for several days lifted at noon today, but made travel extremely hazardous this morning and was responsible for several minor motor accidents.

Trains and trolley cars were far behind schedules and auto drivers were forced to proceed with utmost care to avoid collisions.

A Pittsburgh-bound passenger train on the Conemaugh division of the Pennsylvania Railroad crashed into an automobile at a grade crossing near Glenover station at 8:20 o'clock this morning, injuring E. W. Kelly of 1214 Arch street. Another man in the auto escaped hurts.

His view obscured by fog, William Maul, Suterville, drove his automobile against a Pennsylvania freight train at the Cowansburg crossing near Irwin. Maul was slightly injured, as were Thomas Luker, John and Sylvester Kogey, all of Suterville.

Nick Adamcoak, 1818 Larkins way, was slightly injured in a double accident involving a Carrick car and two autos at South Twenty-second and Sidney streets.

The Carrick car was crossing South Twenty-second street when a truck of a chain grocery dashed out of the fog into the path of the car. In the collision Adamcoak, helper on the truck, was thrown to the street. The truck was thrown against a parked auto. Both machines were damaged.

A tropic-like calm responsible for the fog will give way to an eight or ten-mile breeze late today, dispelling the pall, Forecaster W. S. Brotzman said this morning. Yesterday the air movement was only one mile an hour, a rare condition in this latitude, government records showed.

Light rain is probable tomorrow.

J. B. Crooks, 55, of 827 Farragut street, was taken to Mercy Hospital suffering from a probable fracture of the skull, a broken left wrist and other bruises after being knocked down by an auto driven by A. H. Kreiger, 31, of Brookline Junction, at Fourth avenue and Grant street this afternoon. Kreiger was charged with reckless driving.

MOTORMAN KILLED

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 28.—(INS.)—Joseph Teahl of Penbrook was killed and several passengers were slightly injured when two street cars collided head on in a dense fog at Progress, a suburb, early today.

Teahl was a motorman on one of the cars. None of the others was badly hurt.

THE WEATHER

Fair and not quite so cool tonight; Saturday, probably showers.

Jaworski Captor Ill

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 28.—Mrs. Mary Bastuba, 70-year-old Detroit mother, whose intuition resulted in the capture here of Sam Jaworski, Pittsburgh slayer-bandit, was under a physician's care today. Her illness is ascribed to fear that Jaworski's brother, Paul, may attempt to avenge Sam's arrest.

Mrs. Bastuba Tuesday entered her claim with Allegheny county authorities for the $5,000 reward offered for the capture of Jaworski. The details of the part Mrs. Bastuba played in the arrest of Jaworski were told today by her attorney.

"Jaworski came to the Bastuba home August 29 and asked to rent a garage in the rear of the house. Jaworski's hesitancy in giving his name aroused Mrs. Bastuba's suspicions and she proceeded to watch his actions about the garage. Jaworski had given the name of C. S. Stark. On the night of September 21 she saw Jaworski enter the garage with another man. After they were there for a short time, Mrs. Bastuba sent her daughter, Helen, to see what they were doing. Helen saw the men change license plates on their car. After the pair had left the garage she went to the McClellan Avenue Police Station and related what she had seen.

CAROL'S VILLA LOOTED OF POLITICAL PAPERS

PARIS, Oct. 28.—(INS.)—Prince Carol's villa at Neuilly has been burglarized and a number of the prince's private letters stolen, the police reported today.

Friends of the prince attribute the robbery to political enemies.

WALL STREET CLOSE

AFFIDAVIT BRANDED FRAMEUP

Vice Crusader William L. King boasted that he would "get rid of" the Rev. Dr. J. Alvin Orr, president of the Citizens League if Orr did not see things as he did, according to statements said to have been made by Miss Ruth Parnot, King's former stenographer, to Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh.

Supt. Walsh quoted Miss Parnot when explaining that his investigation of the missing vice director had revealed many of his actions as ruthless and unprincipled and his statements as varying far from the truth.

DENIES SHE WAS DISCHARGED

Miss Parnot, in contradiction of the league officials' statements that she had been discharged, said she quit because attentions paid her by King and others associated with the league made her work unbearable, according to Supt. Walsh.

Supt. Walsh referred to the breach between King and the woman he married on his first mysterious disappearance as "when they started throw dishes."

Supt. Walsh said the affidavits were made in his office on Monday. He declares that Miss Parnot came to Pittsburgh voluntarily. Her home, he said, is at 6201 Harrison street, Kansas City, Mo. She is in Pittsburgh at present, Supt. Walsh said, but he refused to reveal where she was staying on the ground that he had promised her he would protect her from molestation if she came here.

"The affidavit of Miss Ruth Parnot, of Kansas City, which is said to be in the possession of Pittsburgh police, is nothing more than a pack of lies and a deliberate frameup that has been in the making for months," Dr. Orr said last night.

"We have been expecting some sort of wild story from this woman ever since she was discharged from the employ of the Citizens' League early this year," Dr. Orr said. "We knew weeks ago that she and 'the gang' had got together to plan some sort of a frameup and we are not at all surprised at the story she tells."

KING'S IDEA

That King at one time suggested to Miss Parnot that they live together in an apartment was one of the charges Miss Parnot is said to have made in the affidavit. King called at her apartment one Saturday afternoon with groceries from which, at King's request, she prepared a meal, Miss Parnot is said to have related in the affidavit.

"Miss Parnot was employed as a stenographer and clerk in the league office during the early days of the organization. She came here from Kansas City at the request of William L. King, secretary of the league, who recommended her

MOBS RUSH AMERICAN GIRL

By International News Service.

LE BOURGET AERODROME, France, Oct. 28.—Miss Ruth Elder, American aviatrix, landed at Le Bourget this afternoon at 3:45, having flown from Bayonne in a Potez plane, placed at her disposal by William Randolph Hearst through the Daily Mirror, of New York.

Large crowds had gathered at vantage points on the tops of hangars and elsewhere. The spectators spent hours in their uncomfortable positions in order to be sure of witnessing the arrival of America's premiere airwoman.

Ruth plans to stay in Paris for 10 days, it was said. She has cancelled her sailing on the Mauretania tomorrow.

The arrival of Miss Elder and her pilot, Haldeman, was unexpected, for they had not been scheduled to arrive before 4:30.

Many who saw their plane could not believe it was Miss Elder until PENSACOLA, Fla., Oct. 28.—Lieuts. E. R. Frawley and J. McCord, of the Pensacola Naval Air Station, were instantly killed today when their planes locked together about 1,000 above Pensacola and crashed.

One of the planes landed on the home of T. C. Willis, while the other struck the house of a Negro nearby. Both houses were damaged.

It was necessary to cut the bodies out of the two Curtis hawk pursuit planes which the officers were piloting. Both were married and had families.

An investigation was ordered by the naval board of inquiry.

MISS EVA M. CROOKS

Miss Crooks, member of the teaching staff in the Pittsburgh public schools, returned today to resume her duties after her heart balm suit for $15,000 against Dr. Howard Whitehead of Columbus, O., had been non-suited.

Woman Shot By Neighbor

An argument between two women ended in a shooting in the Hill district today when Maggie Parine, 36, was shot as she stood in the kitchen of her home, 1220 Poplar way. The bullet, police were told, was fired from the porch of 1222 Poplar way by Mrs. Jennie Desimone, 35.

BOMBER BLOWS SPAN

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Oct. 28.—A bomb which ripped off the girders of a bridge on the Puckety Creek branch of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and split the concrete abutment, hurled eight members of the household of Arthur Pelegrinelli from their beds at 3:30 o'clock this morning.

The Pelegrinelli home, known as the "Yellow store," is 100 yards from the bridge. Windows were broken and plaster showered on the occupants. Homes two miles away felt the force of the explosion.

Pelegrinelli, his wife and five children, Mary, 15; Rose, 12; Elizabeth, 10; John, 8, and Jean, 10 months, and Mrs. Mary Sarvenelli, mother of Mrs. Pelegrinelli were thrown from their beds.

$5,000 REWARD

The Puckety branch is a coal road extending from the mainline near Parnassus to the Kinloch mine of the Valley Camp Coal Company operating non-union. Recently several homes of miners were bombed and the com-

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 28.—(AP.)—A search of land and sea was under way today for Henry Moity, former New Iberia, La., butcher shop proprietor and erstwhile commercial artist, who, drink-crazed and in a jealous rage, is alleged to have killed his wife and his brother's wife yesterday by clubbing them over the head and then hacking their bodies to pieces with a huge knife, and jammed them into trunks.

150 MORE ELECTION BOARD MANAGERS FACE ARREST HERE

SENATOR CHARLES CURTIS

VOTE PROBE TO HIT TOTAL OF 284

Prosecution of 150 election board managers in the recent primary in addition to 134 already facing indictment appeared possible today following a conference between District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner, Attorney Ward Bonsall, in charge of a special returns board, and officials of the Allegheny County Elections Association.

Attorney Bonsall submitted figures showing that more than 20 districts recounted by his committee showed varying discrepancies from the official returns sent in by the election boards. What prosecutions are to be made from this list will be announced, the district attorney declared, when he has had time to study each recount.

Besides District Attorney Gardner and Mr. Bonsall, Grant Curry, president, and Francis S. Guthrie, secretary of the elections association, attended the conference. They expressed themselves as entirely satisfied with the prosecutor's attitude.

TEACHERS HERE -:- DON SMOCKS -:- FROM CHOICE

SUITS HIM

F. G. Masters, chemistry instructor at Fifth Avenue High School, wears a smock because it serves to protect clothing from chemicals and dirt.

Up in Detroit the school teachers are up in arms over an edict compelling them to wear smocks beginning not more than 10 inches from the floor. They have met the ultimatum with a flat refusal to do so.

NO COMPULSION HERE

But in Pittsburgh the teachers are wearing them in many schools, and no compulsion has been applied, which is, perhaps the explanation. They're pleasant, comfortable, economical, and can be made attractive.

Here's a group that wears 'em. They are Olive Wolf, May Speece, Anna Fulton, Janet Crawford, Margaret Cole, Florence Moore, Helen Farris and Plauda Schenck.

BECOMING

"Not because they're modest," says Miss Mary Cook, advisor to girls at Fifth Avenue High School, "but because they're becoming."

Pittsburgh Teachers Like Smock Idea

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY.

Smocks for Michigan teachers? Not by a darnsite! But, for Pittsburgh teachers? Yes, indeed! A splendid, sensible idea. And all because in Pittsburgh nothing has been said about it by the school board and a great many of the teachers have, on their own accord, adopted the excellent idea.

THEY WEAR 'EM HERE

For instance, at the Fifth Avenue High School, the majority of teachers wear smocks—nice bright ones of a sensible length and attractive make. They don't look at all like so many peas in a pod—as some fear folks who wear a uniform dress of that sort will.

Miss Mary E. Cook, director of activities and adviser of girls, leads the smock brigade and feels:

"One doesn't know what it is to be comfortable in the school room without a smock. They are a pleasure. Of course, I think it is ridiculous for a board to dictate that the teachers shall wear them. I believe the only success is in letting them do so of their own volition."

LIKES COLOR EFFECTS

The women teachers say they are convenient, economical and attractive. Miss Cook spoke of the effect of color upon a school room and declared:

"Children need color. Teachers make their smocks up in pretty blue, pink, orange, lavender, rose. They don't like to wear dull ones because every child likes to see its teacher in something attractive. The ones who wear black smocks usually use bright collars and cuffs of cretonne."

An interesting editorial in the Sun-Telegraph Monday started the comments when it spoke of the smock situation in Michigan and the fact that they had been ordered to make them within 10 inches of the floor.

A local school authority laughed when asked if the new tendency on the part of the teachers to wear smocks might be made an order:

"We don't have to handle our Pittsburgh school teachers that way. They don't dress shamefully, and there is no reason why we should insult their intelligence."

search their holds and question their personnel in the hope that Moity would be located, said no trace of the fugitive was found.

Moity is wanted for killing his wife, Mrs. Theresa Alfano Moity, 35, the mother of his three children, and Mrs. Leona Lee Moity, 28, his brother Joseph's wife and the mother of three. The bodies were found in trunks, face down with the severed heads, arms and lower limbs placed around on top of the torsos. With the body of his wife, the slayer left his weapon, a knife, two feet long and two inches wide, used in hacking sugar cane stalks. The bodies were found by two insurance agents called to the scene by the Negro scrub woman, who found traces of blood.

Joseph Moity surrendered to police yesterday afternoon and expressed the belief that his brother had killed the women through jealousy.

WOMAN SHOT BY NEIGHBOR

Mrs. Parine is in the Passavant Hospital wounded in the breast. Police are searching for the Desimone woman who fled after the shooting. John Minetti, 28, a boarder in the Desimone home, was arrested as the man who had given the revolver to Mrs. Desimone.

The shooting is said by police to be the result of an argument started last night when Mrs. Desimone struck Mary Parine, 14, daughter of the victim, on the head with a plate. The Desimone woman accused Mary of "talking about her."

PARIS MOBS RUSH RUTH

they saw its identification marks. Then there was a great rush and the police were forced to use their clubs to protect the American girl from her admirers.

Haldeman piloted the plane during its entire flight from Bayonne.

Miss Elder's first act on arriving in the commandant's office was to "pretty" herself. She brushed her hair and joked with those surrounding her.

A large group of women admirers were received by the girl flier, who accepted a huge bouquet from them.

Miss Elder was garbed in her unconventional flying costume, that has caused some surprise everywhere she has gone since she landed in the Atlantic Ocean and on front pages.

The first peep at her in the cabin of the plane saw only a laughing face beneath the white cap of a marine officer she had borrowed on the boat that brought her from the Azores to Lisbon.

When she jumped to the ground she stood out in marked contrast to the fashionably gowned women of the crowd, for she wore white plus fours, a white shirt and a leather aviation jacket.

With the police still driving the crowds back and with Miss Elder and Haldeman waving in response to cheers, the two fliers were taken to the American embassy.

Miss Elder will stay in Paris 10 days. She has canceled her sailing back to the United States tomorrow.

Ruth's interest switched from aviation to fashions when she got her first glimpse of the famous Rue De La Paix this afternoon with its line of fashionable hat and gown shops. Miss Elder eagerly looked into the windows and eyed keenly the dresses and hats of the women in the boulevards.

"I certainly hope to get some of those pretty things and take them home with me," said the fair aviatrix.

Crowds cheered Miss Elder all the way to the Hotel Crillon, where she insisted on stopping to "freshen up" before proceeding to the Inter-Allied Club for tea.

Partner Ignored In Wild Ovation To Ruth

PARIS, Oct. 28.—George Haldeman, pilot for Ruth Elder, modestly effaced himself and was practically lost for a time today in the crowd that ignored him in its wild enthusiasm for the girl. As the crowd moved over the field, Haldeman remained behind to tinker with the motor of the plane, his face rather forlorn in contrast with Ruth's cheery smiles.

"What's on your mind?" Haldeman was asked.

"Don't mind me," Haldeman replied with a wistful smile. "I'm just a mechanic."

Women had kissed and hugged Ruth, but Haldeman, covered with oil, apparently was just a plain airman to everybody.

pany offered a $5,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of the bombers.

A charge of dynamite was placed between girders and the abutment of the bridge which spans the Logans Ferry road, a half mile from Parnassus. The bomb was exploded with the evident intention of preventing the shipment of coal from the Kinloch mine.

to the organization. Mr. King later discharged her because she was not satisfactory," Dr. Orr asserted.

Dr. Orr said that Ralph H. Smith, attorney for the league, probably will ask a court order to open the safety deposit box said to contain all of King's records in the league's investigations.

Financial accounts of the league are in proper order, the chairman of the leagues' board asserted.

She also charged King with being a publicity seeker. She said he told of great plans he made for getting his name before the public, but did not carry them through.

She said that King had annoyed her, but had never attempted to "hug or kiss" her.

GARLAND WANTS APOLOGY

George P. Kountz, president of the Allied Boards of Trade, who offered to save the city $1,000,000, owes Council an apology for saying that business men asking for improvements are told to get the indorsement of their ward chairman, Councilman Robert Garland said in a statement today.

"If Mr. Kountz made such a statement, my personal opinion is that he should apologize to Council and do it publicly," said Garland. "If he does not make such an apology I will state most positively that as far as I am concerned, he will not be welcome hereafter at any meeting of Council."

FILM DEATH ALMOST REAL

MARCELLA BATTELINI

Make-believe tragedy of the screen turned into a reality when Marcella Battelini, 18-year-old Italian beauty, was seriously burned. Miss Battelini, who recently won over thousands of Italian girls as "Miss Italy" was signed and she was given a part in her first picture. The scene was cast in a night club in Morocco. The action called for flames to sweep the cafe and the pretty little Italian dancer was supposed to burn to death while the hero sought vainly to save her. In some manner the young actress stumbled over a smoke pot that promptly exploded and immediately the set was engulfed in flames.

MISS SHOILA MAC DONALD

It has fallen to the lot of a Mayfair belle, Miss Shoila MacDonald, of Lancaster Gate, London, and one of the world's most noted Alpine climbers, to be the first woman to climb Kilimanjaro, highest mountain peak in Africa. Four men have succeeded in reaching the topmost pinnacle of the mountain, which towers 19,321 feet into the clouds. Miss MacDonald has achieved some fame as a traveler, and she first essayed mountain scaling in Switzerland, when she was 12.

BAR DUVALL'S "MAYOR"

Court Blocks Nominee Of Accused Executive

By International News Service.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 28.—Judge Joseph M. Milner, of Marion County Superior Court, today issued a temporary order restraining Ira M. Holmes, bequeathed the mayoralty of Indianapolis by John L. Duvall, from attempting to occupy the office.

A hearing on the order was scheduled for Saturday.

The order makes Claude H. Negley, elected Mayor by City Council, Mayor at least for today.

During a short interim the city had its first woman mayor—Mrs. Maude E. Duvall, appointed recently as city controller by her husband.

Holmes, prominent attorney, announced at 2 o'clock this morning that Duvall had mailed his resignation as Mayor to the city clerk at noon yesterday. Mrs. Duvall as city controller under the law became Mayor. Mrs. Duvall, Holmes said, immediately appointed him as city controller and then she herself resigned. Holmes, as city controller, succeeded to the mayoralty.

Negley, president of the City Council, was named as Mayor by that body at a special session yesterday afternoon. Negley last night appointed Frank Cones, president of the board of works under Duvall, as his city controller.

Birdhouse Film Party To See Added Comedy

An Our Gang comedy, "Harvard vs. Yale," will be an additional attraction at the Penn Theater tomorrow morning when members of the Sun-Tele Birdhouse Club gather there for the opening of their twelfth season.

L. Lanning, manager of the Penn, decided that the feature picture, "College," featuring Buster Keaton, would not suffer by having a companion comedy, and today decided to give the boys and girls of the Sun-Tele club the additional entertainment.

Entrance to the theater will be by membership card only, and adults will not be admitted. The performance begins at a quarter to 9.

PUGILISTS TAUGHT HER THESE

LIFE EVENTFUL

MRS. GARRITT VAN HORN BUTLER

Although just 21, Mrs. Garritt Van Horn Butler, bride of a year and one of the most prominent and most popular of London's younger matrons, has led an eventful and useful life. She has studied art, and served as a model; has been a mannequin in the exclusive salon of a society dressmaker, and she has achieved no little success maintaining a kennel of thoroughbred airedales. Her all consuming hobby is dogs, and her favorite is an immense airedale "Pendragon." Before her marriage she was Marigold Braby, daughter of the late Percy Braby and of Mrs. Maud Churton Braby, the author.

Rogers for Curtis Because He's "Injun"

BEVERLY HILLS Cal., Oct. 28.—I liked Senator Curtis' announcement in the papers yesterday better than any presidential ones we have had. He said he would accept it if he was elected, but that he wouldn't accept the nomination unless he was elected. I think that's a most straightforward and clear sighted decision. If more men wouldn't run for office unless they can get 'em we would have fewer races and politics would improve a thousand per cent. I am strong for Charley because he's an "Injun" and he is close enough to Oklahoma to understand the farmers' problems.

Yours,
WILL.

BEAR AND CUB CHASE FAIRVIEW SCHOOL PUPILS

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., Oct. 28.—A big black bear and cub have been seen several times lately hanging around the school house at Fairview. Osborne Shaffer reports seeing the animals, and two school children, a boy and a girl, who came upon them suddenly, wandered aimlessly home, covering the mile to their domicile in a trifle less than a minute flat.

QUARRY YIELDS SILVER

RICH STRIKE NEAR NEW YORK

Year Old Babe Has Eaten 3,000 Bananas

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—(INS.)—Gather around folks, and shake hands with the champion baby banana eater of the world.

She is one year old, weighs 20 pounds and celebrated her first birthday by eating 10 bananas.

It's strictly the inside story of Vivian Kellman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kellman.

"When Vivian was 10 weeks old she refused to drink milk in any form. So I had to find another food for her," explains the child's mother. "Now she lives on bananas.

"Vivian has eaten about 3,000 bananas since that time and she is still going strong."

TO TELL OF HENRY GEORGE MOVEMENT IN DENMARK

Mrs. Signe Bjorner of Copenhagen, Denmark, will speak on the Henry George movement in Denmark at a Henry George memorial dinner on Saturday evening at the Fort Pitt Hotel. Cornelius D. Scully will be toastmaster, and among the other speakers will be former Congressman Warren Worth Bailey of Johnstown, Attorney Henry H. Wilson of Beaver, Miss Janet L. Brownlee of the Pennsylvania College for Women, Attorney Carl D. Smith and George E. Evans, president of the Henry George Foundation.

Relief from crowded conditions in Glassport schools will be sought next month with a bond issue for the erection of a 16-room building, the borough school board has announced.

ENGLISH BABY BEAUTY

JILL CHANDOR

Here is Jill Chandor, picked as the most beautiful child in England, who is on a visit here. She is 6 years old, the daughter of Douglas Chandor, painter of European royalty. The child has shown a talent for art and is being taught by her father to develop that spark of genius.

QUEEN MARIE ASKS -:- RECONCILIATION AS CAROL -:- PLOTS FOR THRONE

KING MICHAEL

WHEN CHILD BECAME KING

Scene in throne room when Michael was proclaimed by Rumanian nobles ruler of themselves and their fortunes. Carol, Michael's father, it is feared, means to regain the throne which he renounced.

RENOUNCED

Late picture of Prince Carol, whose feared plans for a coup have precipitated near-revolt.

THE ROYAL FAMILY

Visits Sick Husband, Arrested; He Dies

Returning from St. Francis Hospital, where her husband was a patient, Mrs. Anna Hecht, 41, was arrested in the saloon which Michael Hecht conducted at 410 South Main street, charged with keeping a disorderly house. Almost before she had posted $500 bond for her appearance, her husband died.

The two were arrested October 17 and fined $100 each for liquor selling. Last Monday Hecht was taken to the hospital suffering from chronic alcoholism, physicians said. His wife had been a daily visitor at the hospital and had just returned yesterday when police raided the saloon again.

MAN BEATEN AND ROBBED WHILE OPERATING CRANE

Vincton Pikutus, 28, of 315 Fourth avenue, Homestead, is in serious condition at West Penn Hospital today as a result of being beaten by two armed men who yesterday entered the cab of a crane which Pikutus operates for the Carnegie Steel Company, Homestead. They took $58 from him and left him unconscious. He was found by fellow employes.

TOY BALLOON KILLS GIRL

FREEDOM, Pa., Oct. 28.—Mary Louise Musgrove, 7-year-old daughter of Everet Musgrove, of Freedom, strangled to death last night on a toy balloon a few minutes after her mother had dressed her in a Hallowe'en masquerade outfit. The child bumped her elbow while scampering about the house. She drew a quick breath as she began to cry and the deflated balloon, which she held in her mouth, was drawn into her windpipe.

CLOTHES STILL NEEDED FOR VICTIMS OF FLOOD

In answer to an urgent appeal from the national headquarters of the American Red Cross, Washington, for clothes for Mississippi Valley flood refugees, a meeting was held yesterday in the Pittsburgh chapter headquarters and plans formulated to answer the call.

A committee consisting of Mrs. A. L. Humphrey, chairman; Mrs. H. S. Hower and Mrs. James R. Maclaren was appointed.

The Pittsburgh Chapter has been asked to contribute two carloads.

A Great Showing of Style Supreme Coats

Women's Dressy Coats
$79.50 to $165.00

The wide range of coats within these groups includes those features which are so important, this season, and which Horne stocks so comprehensively observe, among which are:

Black Coats—Black trimmed, with black furs, black with brown furs, and black with gray furs.

Brown and Tan Coats—Coats in the dark, deep Franciscan brown, and in the lighter, warmer browns, and in light and medium tan shades—all of which combine so smartly with beige-toned dresses in forming ensemble costumes.

Coats of Imported Bokhara—The cloth which so closely resembles rich broadtail fur, that coats of it are suited to formal wear as well as for the street. A fabric which, surprisingly, is also known for substantial wearing quality. Chiefly in black, some coats also in brown tones.

Other Dressy Coats.....$58.50 to $450.00
Other Bokhara Coats.....Up to $495.00
Wear-Weave Coats—specially priced.....$45.00

—Horne's, Second Floor—

Misses' "Wear Weave" Coats
$45.00

More of those specially priced, versatile service coats, arrive in new patterns and new colorings, making a wide choice of tapestry effects, checks, novelty plaids and mixtures. In gray, tan, brown, rust, red, green and blue tones, and black-and-white.

Other Wear-Weave Coats.....$25.00 to $225.00
Dressy Coats.....$59.50 to $315.00
Bokhara Coats.....$125.00 to $315.00

Coats for the Junior-Miss

Groups at $79.50 and $95.00 offer the young woman of 13 to 17, coats which are beautifully suited to her particular age. There are dressy coats lavishly trimmed with those furs most becoming to youth; and sports-type coats of the better kind, with fur collars.

Other Dressy Coats.....$59.50 to $265.00
Sports-type Coats.....$39.50 to $95.00

The Capeskin Glove
Important for Street Wear

For driving or school, or any of the numerous uses a woman always finds for a good-looking capeskin glove. It is very serviceable, washable, and assuredly correct with its single button.

In a deep red-brown, in tan, or in champagne—a light beige, you know. Sizes 5½ to 7½. Priced $4.50.

—Horne's, Main Floor—

Misses' Dashing Frocks To Wear With Topcoats

Frocks of the spirited lightweight tweeds which are being so strongly sponsored by fashion sources, frocks of novelty checked wool crepe and of fancy-patterned flannel, are smart numbers at $25.00 to $35.00.

Each has a note of tan, brown, rust, red, or green, to harmonize with some tone in the mixed colorings of one's topcoat; and the weights are so light they give no unnecessary bulk.

Also, there are frocks of sheer wool georgette, of crepe satin, of dull silk crepes, of georgette, and georgette or silk crepe trimmed with velvet—to wear under dressy coats to the game, and to tea or dinner afterward.

Misses' New Raincoats

Striking ones are the Lindbergh, the "Classy," and the Trench type, which include imported models—of rubber, suede and suede fabrics; and our stocks throughout range in price from $5.95 to $29.50.

—Horne's, Second Floor—

WARN CITY, "GET GOOD AIRPORT"

Pacific Flier and Egge Cite Need Here

Pittsburgh business men twice were told again Thursday that a suitable landing field must be provided here or the city will be left out in the march of commercial aviation progress.

At the Aero Club of Pittsburgh's luncheon to all civic clubs in the Fort Pitt Hotel, Carl Egge, former assistant postmaster general in charge of air mail, and Col. Art Goebel, winner of the Dole air derby $25,000 first prize in the Hawaiian flight, recounted the recent history of commercial aviation in the United States.

Mr Egge, who told of how, in nine years, the air mail has flown 15,000,000 miles, carried 15,000,000 letters and reduced mail time from New York to San Francisco by two-thirds, predicted that within a very few years every trunk line railroad will have auxiliary air lines. "The railroads," he said, "are not going to make a second mistake as they did with the automobile and motor truck. A landing field is as important, or soon will be, as a railroad station."

Col. Goebel, who left after his speech to fly to Washington in his ocean flight plane, the "Woolaroc," was given a tremendous ovation.

The noted pilot, lean and bronzed, but of a darker complexion than Lindbergh, overstayed his time half an hour to recount, in intensely interesting detail, his experience on the flight. He told of the radio beam, a shaft of invisible cord by which he flew the 2,450 miles from San Francisco to Hawaii, which kept him on the course by flashing warning lights when he veered. He came through the clouds exactly 24 hours after leaving San Francisco, he said, to see the islands two hours away. He arrived there with 100 gallons of gasoline and 14 gallons of oil. His machine consumed only 315 gallons of gas and 2½ gallons of oil on the trip, he explained.

GOEBEL IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—(AP.)—Art Goebel, Dole prize winner in the flight from California to Hawaii, arrived here yesterday two and a half hours after taking off from Pittsburgh. He was met by Assistant Secretary of Commerce MacCracken and Louis Ludlow, president of the National Press Club.

MISSIONARY, CANADIAN ADDRESS BIBLE UNION

A South American missionary and a Canadian minister were the principal speakers today at the annual convention of the Baptist Bible Union of Pennsylvania in Calvary Temple, Sheraden. Rev. T. T. Shields, of Toronto, was the principal speaker at the morning session, while at the missionary meeting in the afternoon Rev. O. R. Covault, of Venezuela, was the speaker. Last night the address was delivered by Rev. John J. VanGorder, of Butler, the president. The conference will end tonight.

TRADE ACTIVITY FOR SEPTEMBER INCREASES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—The nation's industrial and trade activity increased in September, although somewhat less than is usual at this season, the Federal Reserve Board announced. "The general level of wholesale commodity prices showed a further rise, reflected chiefly in price advances for agricultural commodities," the board said. "Crop conditions improved in September."

CHAMPION, AUTOMOBILE ACCESSORY KING, DEAD

DETROIT, Oct. 28.—(AP.)—Albert Champion, who rose from errand boy in Paris, France, to millionaire automobile accessories manufacturer in America, died yesterday in Paris, where he had been looking over branch factories.

CRONIN COMPANY SALE REFUSED

Judge John A. Evans, in Common Pleas Court, refused the petition of the receivers of the Thomas Cronin Co., local contracting firm, to sell the assets of the concern for $100,000. The offer was made to the receivers by George A. Jones, Jr., and was to include the uncompleted contract of the Cronin company for construction of the Mount Washington roadway. Officials of the company said that with the completion of the Mount Washington contract, and the offer of some of the creditors to postpone their claims, there would be enough money to pay other creditors, and the company would still be possessed of its plant and realty holdings worth approximately $100,000.

WOMAN POLICE FIGHTER GUILTY

Mrs. Martina Kunicki, 60, of Snyder street, North Side, was convicted in Criminal Court yesterday of resisting an officer. She was placed on parole for one year by Judge Harry H. Rowand.

According to the testimony produced by Assistant District Attorney J. E. Kalson, Constable Ross Shaffer arrested the woman in March on a charge of larceny of a dog and, in resisting arrest, she jumped over the porch of her house and was suspended by handcuffs attached to her wrists until State Policeman Victor Bush came to the aid of the constable and both carried her away, still fighting the two officers.

ALUMNI OF DEMOLAY FORM CHAPTER HERE

The Pittsburgh Chapter of the DeMolay Alumni, the first of its kind in Pennsylvania, was organized last night at a meeting held in the Downtown Y. M. C. A. Former members of 16 DeMolay chapters were present. Thirty-five charter members were enrolled. Louis G. Lower, organizer of the first DeMolay chapter, and Ralph Minehart, state advisory head of DeMolay, spoke. The officers of the alumni chapter selected are: President, Fred Rotzoll; vice president, Philip Ruprecht; secretary, Clifford Douglas; treasurer, James Langhart; sergeant-at-arms, L. Johnston.

STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All Druggists.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c, 30c, 60c.

Lesson No. 2

Question: Why do underweight children need and realize so much benefit from emulsified cod-liver oil?

Answer: Because it provides a vitamin-rich food that nourishes efficiently and helps thin children put on weight. It's known worldwide as

SCOTT'S EMULSION

"I Could Cry Over My Skin"

No Need to Say that Now.

If you have tried "everything" for your pimples, blackheads or eczema and want to know what it is to get something that really works—then let your skin know the magic touch of sulphur combined with menthol. Nothing more amazing than how sulphur clears the skin,—and as sulphur clears, menthol heals. As combined in Mentho-Sulphur, the two make an astonishing skin corrective and builder. Pimples dry up overnight, Blackheads and coarse pores vanish in a few days. And as for eczema—even the most burning or itching case soon yields. Delightful relief from the burning or itching follows immediately upon application.

ON THE CORNER OF TENTH & PENN

'27 HEALTHIEST YEAR IN CITY HISTORY

This year will be the healthiest in the history of the city unless something unforseen in the way of sickness should sweep this district between now and January 1, it was disclosed today by Dr. R. G. Burns, director of the City Health Department. So far this year there have been 214 fewer deaths from all causes than for a similar period in 1926, Dr. Burns declared, and Pittsburgh's population has been increased by approximately 20,000 with the annexation of Knoxville, Carrick and Westwood.

Last year the death rate for Pittsburgh was 14 per 1,000 population as against 14.8 in 1925. There were 8,943 deaths in 1926, which includes 1,436 non-residents. The non-resident death rate here is said to be the highest in the country, due to the large number of persons brought for hospitalization from all parts of the tristate district.

NON-RESIDENT RATE HIGH

By reason of the high non-resident death rate, Pittsburgh's record is a little higher than the national figures, it was pointed out by Dr. Burns. Discounting the non-resident mortality figures, however, Pittsburgh's rate for 1926 would be about the same as the national rate, or 11.8 per 1,000 persons. This year will be considerably lower than that, though, Dr. Burns declares, and the reasons for this are better supervision of infectious diseases, better milk, and more efficient school inspections.

In connection with this year's low mortality rate, Dr. Burns points with pride to statistics his department has kept since its organization in 1873. The highest death rate Pittsburgh has ever known was 26.5 per 1,000 population, and the highest in recent years was during the influenza epidemic, which swept the country in 1918, when 15,503 persons died in Pittsburgh, establishing a rate of 26.1.

Before drinking water filtration was thought of in 1907, Dr. Burns points out, the typhoid sick rate was 1,119.2 per 100,000 population and the mortality 125.2. During the next four years the sick rate dropped to 141.5 and the mortality to 25.8 in 1912 when the city started chlorinating its water. Last year, typhoid morbidity was reduced to 15.6 and mortality to 2.6, according to Dr. Burn's figures.

TWO WALKS SCHEDULED FOR HIKING CLUB SUNDAY

Two trips have been scheduled for Sunday for the Pittsburgh Hiking Club. There will be a 15-mile walk from Duthill to Sewickley by way of Wall Rose. Those taking this walk will take Harmony car at Penn and Stanwix at 9:65 a. m. The leader will be E. C. Shoemaker. Those participating in the afternoon hike will take car No. 26 to Chartiers avenue and Singer street, leaving Penn and Stanwix about 2 p. m., and will walk to Carnegie, a distance of about six miles. C. N. Helsel will be the leader.

A Slave to Worry

paying daily toll to cachexia (run-down condition)

Beset by doubts and fears, nervous and irritable, constantly worn down to the ragged edge, how many women and men today are suffering the ravages of cachexia (run down condition)? Probably millions. But it is pleasant to know that a large percentage of these cases will respond to the curative powers of the simple food, yeast.

And now you can get yeast in a form you'll like—Yeast Foam Tablets. Dainty little pellets of pure yeast. Easy to swallow or fine to chew like candy. Try them once and you'll know how good they are.

In the handy packet for 5c or the large bottle for 50c.

FISHER, KLINE AID SOUGHT IN COAL STRIKE

Local trade unions have voted to ask an investigation of the Western Pennsylvania coal strike by Mayor Charles H. Kline, Gov. John S. Fisher, the two United States Senators and other high government officers.

This action was determined on at a meeting representing 200 local trade organizations and is considered in some circles as a forerunner of action to be taken here November 15, when the American Federation of Labor meets to formulate plans to back up the United Mine Workers of America, described by some as "a fight for its very existence." William Collins, sent here to investigate conditions by President William Green of the Federation, has recommended drastic action.

The Federation, it is expected, will back up the miners' demands for a return of the Jacksonville wage agreement and will also ask drastic changes in the conduct of coal and iron police, as well as the state constabulary.

Mocking mirrors

MOCKING shapes of silvered glass that tell the truth. . . . What a tragedy that some women fade so soon! What a shame! Just a few short years ago, beauty and health were theirs to spare. Now—their mirrors mock them! Wan, thin cheeks, lifeless eyes and taunting, haggard smiles betray the price of neglect. . . . What a pity!

It is terrible—the toll that constipation takes in health and happiness. It thieves beauty. It wrecks vitality. It drags the strongest body down to despair. It is the cause of much suffering and disease. And all the while it could be so easily relieved! So surely prevented!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation—safely, permanently. To prevent this vicious affliction ever gaining a hold.

Why ALL-BRAN is superior to "part-bran"

A large part of ALL-BRAN is "bulk." This bulk absorbs a great deal of moisture and carries it throughout the digestive system. At the same time it gently distends the intestines — purifying, cleansing, eliminating poisonous wastes. In a part-bran product the quantity of bulk is so small that there is seldom a sufficient amount to do this work. That is why doctors recommend ALL-BRAN—because it is 100% bran—and always brings 100% results. Results no part-bran product can equal!

No more need for pills

How different from habit-forming pills and laxative drugs! Which generally become useless unless the dose is constantly increased—and sometimes injure the system! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a delicious, healthful cereal. Serve it with milk or cream—and add fruits or honey for an extra treat. Let it soak for a few moments in the milk or cream to bring out all its delicious flavor. Sprinkle it into soups. Mix it with other cereals. Make it into the many appetizing recipes on every package. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal.

Try eating ALL-BRAN regularly and see how much better you feel! But be sure to get genuine Kellogg's—the original ALL-BRAN. Don't accept a part-bran substitute. At best, it can be but partially effective—often it accomplishes nothing. ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Comes ready to eat. Served at all hotels and restaurants and cafeterias. On dining-cars. Made by the Kellogg Company in Battle Creek, Mich. Write for free "Treatise on Constipation."

What could be fairer?

Eat ALL-BRAN regularly—according to directions on the package. If it does not relieve any case of constipation safely and permanently, we will refund your money. This is the strongest guarantee the Kellogg Company knows how to make. They could never afford to make it if ALL-BRAN did not produce 100% results!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

HEARST PAPERS OFFER BONDS TO PUBLIC

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—Full details regarding the new issue of $20,000,000 Hearst Publications, Incorporated, first mortgage and collateral trust 6½ per cent serial bonds, were made public coincident with the announcement that they are being publicly offered by a large group of investment houses, headed by Halsey, Stuart & Co. and the Anglo-London-Paris Company.

Due to their serial maturities, the bonds, which comprise the largest piece of newspaper financing of the year, are offered at varying prices and yields.

The first maturity, November 1, 1928, is priced at 101.20, yielding 5 per cent; the 1929 maturity at 101.40, yielding 5.50 per cen., and the 1930 maturity at 100.65, yielding 6 per cent, while all the remaining maturities, from November 1, 1931, to November 1, 1942, inclusive, are offered at 100 and interest. The bonds are available in maturities of $100, $500 and $1,000.

Hearst Publications, Incorporated, owns all the outstanding capital stocks, except directors' qualifying shares, of the subsidiary companies publishing the following outstanding Pacific Coast newspapers:

The San Francisco Examiner and San Francisco Call and Post, largest morning and largest evening papers, respectively, in the city; the Los Angeles Examiner and Los Angeles Herald, likewise largest in the morning and evening paper field, respectively, in Los Angeles; Oakland Post-Enquirer, which at present is second in size in Oakland, but has had a much more rapid growth in the past three-year period than its competitors.

Part of the proceeds from these bonds will be used toward the acquisition of the entire capital stock of Post-Intelligencer Company, publishers of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, largest morning paper in Seattle. This means that six of the largest newspapers on the Pacific Coast will comprise the Hearst Publications group upon completion of this financing.

The security for this issue, always a point of major interest to investors, takes several different forms, so that there might be said to be a diversity of security. First, the bonds will be a direct obligation of Hearst Publications, Incorporated; second, the joint and several obligation of its subsidiary companies; third, the bonds will be secured by a first mortgage lien on real estate, buildings, equipment and other fixed assets now owned or hereafter acquired; and fourth, they will be additionally secured by the pledge of practically all the stock of the subsidiary companies.

In addition to these features, the bonds also will be secured by the unconditional guarantee of William Randolph Hearst as to the due and punctual payment of both principal and interest.

A conservative valuation of the property and business to be owned by Hearst Publications, Incorporated, and its subsidiaries, is in excess of $60,000,000. This valuation includes assets, such as value of Associated Press franchises and circulation, in addition to physical and current, which are of basic value to successful newspapers. The conservative value of the physical property owned is about $11,000,000, of which amount over $7,850,000 represents real estate and buildings located in established business districts in Los Angeles, San Francisco and Oakland.

Consolidated balance sheet of the Hearst Publications, Incorporated, and subsidiaries, including the Post-Intelligencer Company, as of September 11, 1927, giving effect to increased capitalization, recent appraisals, and the present financing, shows current assets of $9,130,987 and current liabilities of $2,029,244.

Revenues of Hearst Publications, Incorporated, and its present subsidiaries and those of the Post-Intelligencer Company for the period from January 1 to September 11 of this year were $20,641,532, while net income after depreciation, etc., amounted to $3,608,312. The latter is in excess of the corresponding perior of 1926, and it is expected that the earnings for the full year 1927 will exceed those of 1926. Similar figures for the full year 1926 were $29,270,861 and $5,277,229. Annual interest requirements on the total funded debt will be $1,250,000.

BIG MERCHANT FLEET VITAL

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—Foreign commerce of the United States will always be at the mercy of foreign shipowners until this country has an adequate merchant marine, Secretary of the Navy Wilbur declared in a Navy Day address over the radio. He said:

"A merchant marine is a vital factor in our modern civilization, an essential element in our commercial development, and a necessity to adequate national defense; an element which is lagely, if not wholly self-supporting, and for that reason, if no other, to be heartily supported by the government and our people.

"The freight paid by America for transporting overseas commerce amounts to about $600,000,000 per annum, and not only helps to support a foreign merchant marine, but indirectly helps to support foreign navies maintained to protect that marine and the nation owning it."

TO DROP CITY INSURANCE ON SCHOOLS

BOARD EXPECTS $60,000 SAVING BY ACTION

Fire insurance on public school buildings in Pittsburgh probably will be dropped and the Board of Public Education by doing so will save approximately $60,000 a year. The finance committee of the board last night recommended to the board that no policies be renewed and it was predicted that the recommendation suggested by President Marcus Aaron will be adopted by the board. All policies now in force will expire not later than 1930.

It was pointed out that although the board has paid $416,000 in fire insurance premiums since 1912, it has collected only $19,154 as fire losses. Of the $30,000,000 worth of public school buildings in the city, property valued at $17,000,000 is regarded as fireproof.

The plan to save the insurance premiums contained the suggestion that without impairing the teachers' pension fund, a sufficient reserve of its finances could be transfered to a special fund to meet any possible emergency expenditures due to fire losses.

WIFE RETRACTS, MAN ACQUITTED OF BIGAMY

Morenus Brissenden, a plumber, was acquitted of bigamy in Criminal Court yesterday in a verdict directed by James R. Macfarlane when his second wife, whom he married in Wilkinsburg April 13, 1921, as Miss Nellie Hobart of Pitcairn, testified that she had learned since preferring the bigamy action that he had obtained a divorce prior to their marriage.

Cadets Crash in Air, Face Trial for It

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Oct. 28.—(AP.)—Aerial maneuvers resulting in realistic interpretation of war-time "dog fighting," in which two cadet aviators escaped death by using parachutes when their planes collided at 2,500 feet, today found the pilots facing possible court-martial.

The pilots, J. D. Cleveland, of Cleveland, and E. A. Sanburn, of Upper Lake, Cal., had little to say of their adventure pending their appearance before Kelly field authorities today on charges of violation of orders prescribing formations for student fliers.

They were ordered to practice a three-ship pursuit plane formation over Kelly field yesterday. After taking up formation with the third plane Maj. James E. Chaney, commandant, said the cadets started unauthorized tactics.

Soon after they began maneuvering for positions in the duel the wings of the planes locked. The machines whirled, but remained locked until within 500 feet of the ground. The pilots made perfect parachute jumps and landed uninjured a short distance from the wreckage. The ships were smashed to such an extent that salvage of even the engine was doubtful, officers said.

Maj. Chaney declared, "There was no excuse for the crash," and ordered the inquiry.

GOT LEAVINGS, FIREMAN SAYS IN DIVORCE SUIT

"He drove up to my home in an automobile, my wife said she was leaving for good and I have only seen her once since."

That is what Charles F. Martin, a Pennsylvania Railroad fireman, said before Judge Ambrose B. Reid in his application for divorce from his wife, Dorothy F. Martin, who, the husband claims, left his home with Clem A. Wilson.

"Wilson took his meals at my house and I took the leavings when I came home," Martin said. "My wife told me she wanted Clem." Martin says his wife is a waitress. He lives at 501 Arch street.

Do former Follies Beauties have babies? Indeed they do. And they make good mothers, too, you will find in the Magazine Section of The Sunday Sun-Telegraph.

CONVICT 2 IN REALTY FRAUD

Leo Veress and Steve Niksie, real estate operators in the House Building, were convicted of conspiracy to defraud and Niksie also was convicted of false pretense in Criminal Court yesterday. Mirko Jirinic of 1040 East Ohio street, North Side, accused the pair of obtaining from him life savings of $1,400 for two lots in Sharon on representations that the property was paved and sewered and had gas and electric connections, whereas the property was not so improved. He also declared that the defendants had promised him a position in a bank in Sharon at $150 monthly upon payment for the property. Sentence was deferred by Visiting Judge Miles I. Potter.

None-Sold-for-Cash

COMPLETE WITH TRAVELING CASE, NON-COLLAPSIBLE HORN FOR USE IN THE HOME AND FOLDING HORN TO TAKE ALONG WHEN TRAVELING.

View B—Brunswick Portable Packed for Carrying.

The cash price of this phonograph is $10.00 and the non-collapsible horn $1.50 extra. We are offering you the entire outfit for just $7.95 on 25 cents down and a year to pay.

Description: This wonderful portable phonograph is light and small enough to be handily carried anywhere.

The feature of the BRUNSWICK PORTABLE is the BRUNSWICK FOLDING HORN, which is carried in the lid of the case when not in use, eliminating a bulky horn or tone arm. See illustration B.

The Brunswick Portable is the only record-carrying, really portable phonograph. (It holds one to six standard 10-inch records). Plays 12-inch records, too.

Due to the Brunswick reproducing method, distortion and barrel tones are COMPLETELY ELIMINATED. Music is always natural, which means practically 100% reproduction value. Volume and quality far better than any other portable phonograph and equal to the most expensive cabinet models.

Every Brunswick Portable Phonograph is guaranteed to be made of superior materials and to give splendid service.

Today's Traffic—

IS YOUR CITY still enduring the annoyance and discomfort of pavements which were laid for horse-drawn traffic, many years ago?

The motor traffic of today needs wider streets with smooth, safe pavements of portland cement concrete.

Many progressive communities have already adopted concrete as the standard paving material for business and residence streets alike. Has yours?

The Portland Cement Association is a national organization to improve and extend the uses of concrete, with offices in 32 cities.

912 SEA TRAGEDY SURVIVORS LANDED

By International News Service.

RIO JANEIRO, Oct. 28.—Dazed and horror-stricken by the frightful experience they have passed through 912 survivors of the sunken Italian liner Principessa Mafalda have arrived in the ports of Bahia and Rio Janeiro.

The number of missing is still unknown, but 346 persons have not been landed, although the offices of the Navigazione Generale Italiana still claim that the death list will be far below this figure.

The Dutch steamer Albena, with 831 passengers and seamen of the Principessa Mafalda, came into port early this morning and began discharging her cargo of excited and harrowed survivors, and the French steamer Formosa followed shortly with 253 others.

Both ships carried many injured survivors. Ambulances and physicians met them.

Ship's Survivors Claim Captain Killed Self

RIO JANEIRO, Oct. 28—(AP.)—Survivors of the Principessa Mafalda disaster who arrived here today on the French steamship Formosa declare that the commander of the Mafalda, Capt. Simon Gill, committed suicide.

DEATH ROLL

Patrick Connelly.

Patrick Connelly, 104, believed to be the oldest man in Pittsburgh, and known to thousands of residents of Knoxville, Beltzhoover and Montooth, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Edward Heath, 917 Eldora place, Wednesday morning.

"The Colonel," as Mr. Connelly was known to many in the district where he has lived for the last 24 years, was active until the time of his death.

Born in County Galway, Ireland, he came to this country 24 years ago. He was the oldest member of the Eighteenth Ward Board of Trade and attended St. Canice's Roman Catholic Church.

J. M. Camp Funeral.

Funeral services for J. M. Camp of 1426 Wightman street, chemist, who died Wednesday in his home, were held yesterday with many persons prominent in the steel industry in attendance. Burial was in Homewood Cemetery. Mr. Camp was director of the bureau of instruction of the Carnegie Steel Company and chairman of the chemists' committee of the United States Steel Corporation. He was a member of the Engineers' Society of Western Pennsylvania, the American Society of Steel Treaters, the American Chemical Society and the American and British Iron and Steel Institutes. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Belle W. Camp.

Miss Margaret A. Chadwick.

Miss Margaret A. Chadwick, 76, a daughter of the late Samuel and Anna M. Chadwick, died Sunday in the home of her sister, Mrs. Bertha McKee, at San Mates, Cal., according to word received here. Miss Chadwick was a life-long resident of Pittsburgh. She was a member of Emory Methodist Episcopal Church and was once a teacher in the Sunday school there. She was also a member of the Criterion Club.

Do former Follies Beauties have babies? Indeed they do. And they make good mothers, too, you will find in the Magazine Section of The Sunday Sun-Telegraph.

Protection for Your Service

BLAZING trails over mountain ranges, cutting through forests, then out upon the highways—

Hardy construction "gangs" are replacing the old-time open-wire lines with cables—on short, sturdy poles.

The larger centers are now connected by these storm- and trouble-defying avenues of communication.

Last year nearly seventy thousand miles of wire in cables alone were added to the Bell toll lines in Pennsylvania.

The old enemy of telephone service—sleet storm—is being outgeneraled.

And with a 17% improvement in maintenance, service interruptions are approaching the vanishing point.

Dependability and freedom from interruption are keeping pace with the increased speed of your out-of-town calls.

It's part of the new era in telephone communication.

If you feel like 60 at the age of 45—think this over! It may help you get back your pep of earlier years. Many men often have slight stomach disorders, nervous attacks and weak spells. They think little about them. But suppose your physician told you some of these slight attacks were symptoms of System Poisoning—professionally called "TOXEMIA"—guess you'd sit up and take notice! It's an insidious malady that steals your vital energy, slowly but surely. You sometimes take ordinary laxative pills and waters, but they don't dislodge the poisonous toxins that cling to intestinal lining—the deadly bacteria that cause senility and make you look and feel old in years before you should. Why don't you take Partola, the internal antiseptic and laxative that positively cleans out the poison wastes? Do so for a while, then see your natural strength return, health improve, ambition and power of endurance increase. Bowel disorders and stomach troubles disappear when you take Partola. It is sold by all druggists at 30¢ a box, or double size box 50¢.

Whereas A Girl Risks Her All To Get A Rich Society Husband

by Gilbert Rogers

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

MARGIE MARSH comes to New York with $1,000 and a wonderful education. She keeps house with four other girls, learns stenography, and decides after three years to marry. She fails to find her ideal, and Dan Shevlin, a shrewd man of the world, offers to introduce her into smart society through a Mrs. Brooke. Margie recklessly writes and signs a note dictated by Shevlin saying she loves him and will never regret the six months she has spent with him. She calls on Mrs. Brooke and is tempted to give up the game, but Mrs. Brooke offers to help her and she finally decides to go on. Margie buys wonderful clothes, which Shevlin pays for. Mrs. Brooke opens her cottage in Newport. Margie meets her brother Mark Trelaw, a cripple. She goes for a swim, climbs upon an ugly little sail boat and comes face to face with Jerry Evesham, a most attractive young man, who takes it for granted that she is very wealthy. Margie scores a success with rich Tubby Wells, greatly to Mrs. Brooke's delight, goes on his yacht and discovers he is secretly married. This information proves of great interest to Shevlin. Margie wishes she had never given him that compromising letter, but decides to go through with things.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

SHE MUST stop thinking such absolute nonsense, and about a man whom she had talked to just once, knew nothing about. Still he was so strong-looking, so young and clever, too. And not too good. Oh, good men—those really were the worst of all. You yawned and yawned and yawned, they were so good.

"Where's Mark?" Shevlin's voice broke in on her thoughts.

"Oh, you know he always stays in his room, when—" Mrs. Brooke let the words die away.

"When I'm here, eh? Poor old Mark. How he loves me! Old Day-of-Judgment Mary!"

"He's my brother."

"I wouldn't boast about it if I were you."

Carlotta bit her lip, and Shevlin swung his sardonic glance on Margie.

"The professional siren's a little silent tonight. Thinking of new conquests, no doubt?"

Margie's eyes met his clearly, in a duel. Something somber flickered into his expression, and his gaze burned down into her for a moment, so that she drew in her breath sharply—a gaze like that he had turned upon her before dinner. Almost instinctively she turned to the woman who loved him, but Mrs. Brooke was not watching, had not seen. And Shevlin's voice showed nothing.

"When you're rich and have married a duke, kind lady," he whinned in a voice of mock humility, "don't forget your early friends—don't forget poor old Dan, who knew you in the days before your great success!"

She was not in the mood to reply. After all you can't joke with somebody you dislike, somebody whom you vaguely fear. And a hundred anxious questions twisted through Margie's brain. Why had he looked at her like that? And why was he so unmoved at the fact that she was not going to marry Tubby Wells? She wouldn't allow herself to think of all the money she owed Dan Shevlin now—she did not even dare glance at the flowing lines of the frock she was wearing and that he had paid for. Only something, as deep as instinct, warned her that he was a man who had never given anything for nothing, and that not so far ahead she might find herself in real trouble through him.

To drive away those restless thoughts, her mind soared suddenly to Jerry Evesham, on his dingy old boat in the harbor. Tomorrow—tomorrow she would see him again!

CHAPTER XII.

SHE awoke all at once to stare into the darkness. There must be a moon, for the tips of the four-poster bed were like little pale lights. The faintest breeze came through the opened window, ruffling the summer curtains. From far away she thought she could make out the muffled roar of the sea.

But why had she awakened like this, with every nerve and sense alert? She wriggled her toes in the linen sheets and thought of how a woodland animal must start to consciousness just like this at the hint of danger. She was a deer, and on the wind she had heard the voices of men stealthily approaching with guns. . . . She smiled in the darkness, then sat up in bed.

That wasn't the sea she heard, not that regular, dull beat. Margie slipped out of bed and stole to the window. Below her on the drive under the trees was a big roadster, with its engine still running. The headlights flared, making a brilliant circle of light and sending up the pale radiance she had thought was moonlight.

There was no one in the car, but she recognized it as Shevlin's. He had just driven up—perhaps, coming from somewhere, going somewhere, on one of his mysterious errands. Her eyes darted to the radium dial of the clock on the mantel. Almost four! And as if from far away she could make out in the darkness a faint thinning as the night was making its last stand before the dawn. The car with its lights and thrumming motor, the silence, the loneliness of the faint wind—there was something ghostly about it. And at that moment there came a new sound to her ears, a woman's high-pitched, rapid voice, and a sharp exclamation. Then a sudden, low whispering . . . across the hall . . . from Mrs. Brooke's room.

Margie stole back to bed, doubled the pillow over her ears, commanded herself to go to sleep. But she grew only wider awake, lying there while the first grayness touched the sky and the lights from the car below took on sickly hues.

After all if people want to whisper—or quarrel—that's their affair. If they want to come in near dawn in long, handsome roadsters, they've a right to. After all—but really, what were they so tense about, what was this secret between Carlotta Brooke and Dan Shevlin? "I must stop thinking about this, or I'll get crow's-feet from curiosity!" Margie decided, and—went on thinking. Went on until the whispering had ceased, and she heard a quick step on the stairs, the opening of the front door, the sound of the roadster springing into life, as, with a shift of speeds, it darted from the gravel path below and sped away.

Shevlin had gone. Where, why, how—"oh, do stop thinking!" Margie pleaded with herself. But almost the next second she heard from Mrs. Brooke's room a sound that was a little like a moan, like a sob. No need to think now! Margie's negligee was over her shoulders, her feet had slipped into mules and she was knocking gently on Mrs. Brooke's door. . . .

A bridge lamp over a silken daybed made a kind of spotlight under which Mrs. Brooke was sitting. Her mouth was tugged down at the corners, her eyes were red. She looked hurt and strangely helpless. Margie's arms were around her. Margie's heart was beating with a new tenderness. You could cry when you were miserable over little things. But little things didn't make you

CRITICAL SITUATION ARISES OVER WILSON PLAN

Life and Letters of War President

The Graduate College Controversy That Enlisted Warm Support, but Also Caused Serious Divergences

All was not peace and harmony for Wilson in the carrying through of his ambitious plans for the regeneration of Princeton University, as recounted in an absorbingly interesting chapter of "The Life and Letters of Woodrow Wilson" in the Sun Telegraph yesterday. The college president was compelled to exert his will even to the point of forcing some of the trustees out of office. Dean West, who had been in accord with Wilson, now differed sharply from him and became decidedly unfriendly.

By RAY STANNARD BAKER

Graduate College Controversy

IN ORDER to comprehend clearly the bitter controversy of later years at Princeton, it will be necessary at this point, as indeed it is interesting, to look into the earlier phases of the struggle for a graduate college. It will be seen how early the seeds of dissension were strewn, and how they grew, at least at first, out of the circumstances, not at all out of personal rivalry.

Princeton had long had a graduate school, but not a graduate college to house it. The distinction is important. West's interest for years had been in building a "college" or "quadrangle." At the Sesquicentennial in 1896—when Wilson delivered his first great educational address, "Princeton in the Nation's Service"—West advanced the project of a residential graduate college to accommodate the students of the graduate school. President Patton voiced his approval, and architects were even authorized to make plans for the buildings, which were to be upon the grounds of the university.

Wilson was one of a faculty committee of four which later prepared a forceful petition to the trustees urging the necessity of a strong graduate college to build up the prestige and influence of Princeton. The presence of a strong body of graduate students, the committee argued, would promote "intellectual seriousness" among the undergraduates. Even at this early time Wilson's idea of complete unity between graduate and undergraduate work, with one intimately influencing the other, was thus clearly set forth.

But everything drifted under Patton's administration, and years slipped by with nothing done. In 1900, however, M. Taylor Pyne, one of the most energetic and generous of the trustees, a great friend of West's, became chairman of the committee of the board and West was promptly elected dean of the proposed graduate college. There was nothing in the definition of his functions to show that he was in any respect subject to the authority of either the president or the faculty. While it seemed necessary to take this course in order to get anything whatever accomplished, the trustees were unwittingly sowing seeds of divided control, of rival interests within the University, of decentralization, which were in later years to bear bitter fruit.

Dean West's Activity

West took up his work with great energy. From the first he was deeply concerned about the question of a site for the new college. He urged upon the trustees' committee in March (1902), and again in May, the necessity of choosing a site "which will help toward securing endowment." In June, 1902, Wilson was elected president of Princeton University and Dean West received an appropriation ($2,500) for use in making a trip to Europe to study methods of housing graduate students. The two men were thus launched upon their administrative careers at Princeton, one to head the university, the other to build up the graduate college, in the same month—and with no clear definition of their respective powers and duties. Any one of the able business men on the board of trustees would have scotched instantly such a tendency toward divided control in the conduct of his own affairs; it was not only tolerated but encouraged by those who directed Princeton University.

It is plain that at this time every one understood that the graduate college was to be located on the campus "at the heart of Princeton," where there might be constant and intimate relationships between graduate and undergraduate students, the graduate to "stimulate and set the pace for the whole university." In the beginning West himself clearly entertained this idea. As West and Hibben wrote in October, 1909:

"Before this plan was instituted and tried we were clearly of the opinion that the graduate college should be located at least in immediate contiguity to the central campus, preferably on what is known as the Olden tract, for the reason that the choice of a site at some distance raised the question as to whether residential separateness might not tend to separateness in institutional and intellectual development and thus make difficult the maintenance of the integral unity, beneficent interaction and close sympathetic relation of the graduate college with the university as a whole!"

The Primary Problem

West's tour of inspection of English and continental universities in the summer of 1902 made a tremendous impression upon him. The life at Oxford, imposing buildings and striking effects dazzled him completely. His letter to Wilson, October 4, from that place has pasted on it four clippings taken from a book of Oxford views. The Magdalen Tower charmed him. "By moonlight, what a dream in silvery grays and whites!" The universities of Europe, rich in tradition, pure in architecture and lovely to visit, thrilled him, too. When he faced homeward in December, 1902, he was fairly bristling with European ideas and ideals.

He drew up a persuasive report, formulating his plans, in January, 1903. Wilson added a preface consisting of a paragraph from his report to the trustees, October 21, 1902, with a few changes. The important thing in the report, as Wilson considered it, was West's complete approval of his ideal of a graduate college set, "at the heart of Princeton."

At this time and during the next two years Wilson and the entire faculty, indeed every one in any way interested in Princeton, were engaged in the arduous and exciting labor of reorganizing the university—building firmly from the bottom, according to the orderly plans that Wilson had outlined. Every one, including Dean West, understood that undergraduate problems must first be solved before the superstructure of a graduate school could be considered.

"I am, of course, convinced that the undergraduate interests are our first and necessary concern, and that all else should give way to this consideration. It is also clear there can be no strong graduate school in Princeton except as built on a strong undergraduate foundation. If, therefore, the exclusive choice between undergraduate and graduate interests becomes necessary, I think the graduate school ought to be sacrificed," wrote Dean West in his report of December 5, 1903.

Enter Grover Cleveland

On October 20, 1904, Grover Cleveland, who was to become a considerable factor in the coming controversy, was made chairman of the trustees' committee on the graduate school, and began to exert his great power and prestige in pushing West's proposals. West and Cleveland had been warm personal friends since 1896. They had many interests in common. It was West who succeeded in getting Cleveland to attend the sesquicentennial in 1896; Cleveland found so much charm in the lovely old village that he decided to make his home there when the cares of offices were laid aside in March, 1897. It was largely through West that he secured one of the old estates in Princeton, and as a mark of his appreciation and regard for West named it "Westlands."

Cleveland had no especial knowledge of educational problems in general and none whatever of those at Princeton when he moved to the village, but he became the Stafford Little lecturer on public affairs, and in 1901, the same year that West took up his duties as dean, Cleveland was elected a trustee of the university.

With the powerful support of Cleveland and Pyne—with whom West was also upon terms of intimate friendship—the plans for the graduate college began to develop more hopefully. And at the same time there was increasing signs of divergence—a separation of interest. Many things scarcely perceptible at the time, but clear enough now in the records and letters, indicate that West was beginning to seek control for himself, to draw away from the class unity of interest and influence which was the lifeblood of Wilson's program.

On June 12, 1905, at the very meeting of the board at which Wilson's preceptorial system was formally adopted, West reported that he had at last found suitable quarters for the graduate college. Largely through the generosity of M. Taylor Pyne, he had been promised Merwick, the former residence and grounds of Prof. Raymond on Bayard Lane. The house was large enough to accommodate comfortably at least 12 students in residence and as many more at the dining table. There were 11 acres of grounds about the place, devoted to lawn and gardens—a beautiful spot only a short walk from the campus, yet outside of it.

He had obtained subscriptions of $5,700 to begin the work, Mr. Cleveland's name leading the list with $100 a year for three years.

On the Eve of Battle

Merwick was opened as a temporary graduate college on September 21, 1905—in the same months that the preceptorial system was also being launched. Wilson approved the project—believing that it would prove a "sure prophecy of the graduate college for which we so eagerly hope." It was to fill the gap until the foundation of the undergraduate work could be made secure and orderly and they could obtain the real endowment—some $3,000,000—for a graduate college "at the heart of Princeton."

Such were the conditions, and the growing perplexities and rivalries at the close of the year 1905. Thus far Wilson's clear and bold program for the co-ordination of the university, its development according to an harmonious plan, aimed at a single great purpose, had met with astonishing success. But the first glorious impetus was passing, powerful new interests, which Wilson considered decentralizing and inharmonious, were crowding forward. His own innovations, now that they were in operation, failed to accomplish all that he had dreamed. His "ideal university" was still remote, his vision still unrealized!

The year 1906 was the crisis of his presidency at Princeton.

In the midst of the troubles at Princeton, as will be seen in tomorrow's chapter, Woodrow Wilson became a national figure and was first mentioned as a possible candidate for the presidency of the United States.

Special Cable Dispatch.

LISBON, Oct. 28.—The captain of the S. S. Lima had cut down our speed so that we would not arrive in the port of Lisbon ahead of time.

While George and I were on deck trying to get a glimpse of the city we were about to enter we suddenly spied a large single-motored seaplane flying low and coming toward us.

The plane circled very low as it passed over the ship and we recognized it as being the German Junker plane which was expected to leave Lisbon shortly for the Azores, from where it was to make a final hop to America.

In a few minutes more planes arrived, and as they circled and darted over our ship, I longed to be up there with them.

Our attention was particularly attracted to one Portuguese army plane, which flew very low over us several times to drop bunches of roses on the deck of the Lima. Many of the sailors and passengers gathered the blossoms and brought them to me.

When we were very near the landing dock, the army flier made one final swoop, and, throttling down his motor, he leaned over the cockpit to call down his greetings. We all waved in response.

By this time launches and small tugs were swarming about us. The captain stopped the Lima to take aboard the pilot, with whom came many newspapermen and photographers.

GREETED BY AMERICANS

We recognized many Americans. A huge delegation of our countrymen was at hand. We were particularly glad to meet the American Minister to Lisbon, Mr. Fred Morris Dearing, with whom we were to stay while in Lisbon.

We were in the hands of a real man and knew that our stay would be pleasant.

With Mr. Dearing were Walter Thurston, secretary of the legation, Mr. Joseph Walsh and several other Americans.

Senor Cifka Duarte, commander of the air force of Portugal, and the officers of his staff, including Sarmento Beires and Pinheiro Correia, noted Portuguese aviators who gave successfully made long flights across water were there.

Commander Duarte welcomed us on behalf of the Aero Club of Portugal and Spain and the Portuguese air service. We felt honored to meet these officers and receive their welcome.

By this time the Lima had docked and we were being greeted by hundreds of people on shore.

After saying our good byes to Captain Pinto and his officers on the Lima, all of them we certainly hated to leave, Minister Dearing and the air service officers escorted us to waiting limousines, in which we were driven to the palace of the Portuguese Republic, where we met General Carmona, the president. He is a wonderful man, and George and I were delighted to have had an opportunity to meet him.

We paid our respects and left the palace for the American legation, where we immediately felt at home after having been presented to Mrs. Dearing.

IN LOVE WITH LISBON

I liked Lisbon as soon as I saw its skyline from the deck of the Lima, and, since we are stopping with the Dearings, I am sure we will have a pleasant stay while here. If it compares with the time we had on the Lima there will be no cause for complaint.

On Monday night after we had left Madeira Island we were pleased to learn that we were to have music with our meals. A young Portuguese senor had brought a Victrola from Madeira. We enjoyed several Portuguese songs. Then he played some American jazz, including such numbers as "I Want to Be Happy," "Knee Deep in Daisies," "Dinah" and several other tunes.

Everyone was in extremely high spirits and I really enjoyed myself, especially so since I had spent the day in my cabin.

After dinner I went on deck and did the customary mile before joining George in Capt. Pinto's cabin. With much pride the Captain displayed a new Victrola which he had purchased in Madeira.

Later we went below deck and found a great many of the passengers dancing. We joined them and had a lot of fun. One couple danced the Argentinian Tango beautifully.

A young Portuguese gentleman and I gave them a poor exhibition of the Charleston.

We had a very cosmopolitan crowd on board. People from France, Italy, Spain, England, Portugal, Germany and where not. Though I am terribly anxious to reach Paris, I shall hate to see this journey come to an end.

When the dance was over we went up to the officers' bridge to bid Second Officer Carlos Calos good night. He is a most likeable young fellow and has acted as interpreter, guide and companion to us. We have thoroughly enjoyed knowing him.

Next morning we were invited up on deck to have pictures made with the officers of the boat, and had a jolly time.

We have two camera men on board and I am afraid to stick my head out of the cabin unless I am all primped up, for they will insist on having their pictures.

Even though I was hobbling around with a sprained ankle, they incessantly took pictures of me going up and down steps. I am sure that I will prove to be most awkward and clumsy in them.

I had doctored my ankle frantically so that I might be able to walk without limping when we reached Lisbon.

What do you say—the vanity of women?

Oh, well, I suppose you're right, but who wants to be laughed at and in a strange country to make it worse?

Our last dinner aboard the Lima was a bit more lively than the others had been as we were to reach our destination, Lisbon, at 4 o'clock, and everyone was in bright spirits.

It was a wonderfully clear day with remarkable visibility. We were able to sight the coast of Portugal about 2 o'clock. Land surely looked good to me.

I could not help but let my thoughts turn back to our American Girl, which had battled that terrible storm and had apparently tried so hard to bring us to this beautiful coast of Portugal after we had been forced off our course.

But in another hour we were in the bay and in a few minutes the welcome started.

look like that, that strained, wild look that touched the bottom of despair.

"You're a good little thing," Carlotta Brooke's voice was a whisper, an unsteady whisper. Her hand closed round Margie's hand, as if to cling for comfort. "I—oh, well, I wish I had the nerve—the nerve! Only I don't dare kill myself. People say it's cowardly to do that. I wish I had the courage!"

"Is it something that—that that you'd want to tell me? I mean, can I help anyway—anyway at all?"

Mrs. Brooke shook her head. "No, only don't leave me. I'll go mad if I'm alone. Talk to me . . . say anything . . . make me stop thinking—if you can. No, get me that blue bottle on the shelf—in there. Bromides—it's only bromides—don't look at me like that!"

The white, flaky tablet dissolved in a few teaspoons of water, and Mrs. Brooke drank and set down the glass. She snapped off the light, for the sky was more than grey now. It was a cold white, and outside a few birds were chirping in the trees as if no one had ever been unhappy anywhere.

"I met him in Cannes," Mrs. Brooke said suddenly and Margie did not need to ask whom she meant. "It was—quite a long time ago. He was just a gambler, and I thought I'd never dislike anybody so much until I'd found I couldn't like anybody any more. And since then—if I could tell you—but I can't, I can't! . . ."

"But if you love him," Margie faltered bravely, "I don't suppose anything matters. I mean if you really love somebody."

Then Charlotta Brooke laughed, laughed wildly, almost hysterically. "You poor little thing!" she exclaimed between gulps, "you poor little thing! Do you think it's really that? Do you think I'm having remorse for—for a love affair? You are innocent, aren't you? A little innocent . . ."

Margie's arm came free. "I'll go back to bed, I think."

"Oh, don't leave me . . . don't leave me. I've hurt your feelings—I can't help it. I'm all in pieces, I tell you. You've got to make allowances. And I've got to have someone near me who does like me. You do like me, don't you? . . ."

"Oh! . . . you know that! . . ."

"Then don't leave me—not yet. I—I shouldn't know what to do if you did."

The dawn hours, people stirring below, the maids getting breakfast, and Margie sitting there still, talking about nothing, about everything, about her life years ago at school in France, about her gay, handsome father who had died too young, about her lonely days in New York, her friends. For it was that which Charlotta Brooke wanted to hear most. "Talk to me about yourself—everything—what you want and things like that. Then I shall be able . . . to forget myself."

Breakfast was sent up, and the fine summer morning was in full swing. Too late to go down to the water now and swim out to a dingy boat in the harbor, Margie though ruefully. For there was an early luncheon engagement that Mrs. Brooke had made for both of them today, a dozen things to do before that. Oh well, Jerry Evesham would still be there.

An hour later Margie was at Mrs. Brooke's side, driving down Bellevue avenue towards the smart branches of smart New York shops. Mrs. Brooke was buying extravagantly, as if a fever possessed her.

As they came out to the sidewalk, Mrs. Brooke turned back for a moment, and a man, sauntering with panama and stick, almost ran into Margie. It was Tubby Wells. Into his eyes flashed an extraordinary look of coldness and contempt.

Margie gave him a puzzled glance, then smiled. "How are you?"

"Well . . . you are a cool one . . . and you're very clever, aren't you?" He puffed out the words like little gasps of anger.

"What . . . I don't understand," she faltered. Why was he looking at her like that? Was she dreaming? Had someone said something? Had he found out she was just a pretender?

"You ought to be on the stage—best little actress I ever saw. Why, if I hadn't been bitten, I'd be taken in by that look all over again!"

"Do you mind telling me what you're talking about?"

He leaned forward. His eyes were brighter. "Certainly. On board my yacht. Tomorrow. What do you say?"

"Well, I—yes!" said Margie suddenly.

He gave her a significant look, lifted his hat, and strolled on.

And afterwards at lunch in a big house on the cliff, while Mrs. Brooke kept chattering away in a vein of worldly flippancy, so that no one would have believed her to be the same woman who had sat facing the dawn haggard and inarticulate with anguish, Margie's mind kept coming back to Tubby Wells.

CHAPTER XIII.

MARGIE settled down in the boat-wicker. Behind her the pennant snapped and fluttered in the fresh wind. Tubby Wells' power yacht was nosing its way through the channel.

She sat quiet, straining her eyes for a glimpse of the dingy little boat about which she had thought often in the last few days. No sign of it. Vanished utterly. Something like a stab of pain came with the thought that he had gone, that Jerry Evesham had gone and she would never see him any more. Why, it was ridiculous—a man she'd scarcely met—knew nothing about—! But she tried to be honest. She knew that down deep in her was the desire to know him much better. Not many men were as nice as that, as interesting. . . .

Dicky Takes an Artistic, but Irritating Interest in Young Miss Lincoln

AT DICKY'S announcement that he wished to speak to me about Miss Lincoln, I had hard work to keep out of my face the astonishment which I felt. I had seen the unusual interest which he had evinced in our beautiful young neighbor of The Larches, the mystery of whose personality and antecedents was so intriguing, but that he should wish to discuss her with me was the thing furthest from my thoughts. Usually when Dicky has his artistic—I almost wrote "romantic"—interest aroused in any rarely attractive young woman he avoids any reference concerning her to me.

"Yes?" I said with an upward inflection, trying, hard to keep out of my voice the vague annoyance I felt at his reference.

"I'd like you to see as much of her this summer as you can," he said, then with a quick glance at my face from which I could not banish all trace of astonishment, he added apologetically, "I know this seems rather a queer request, but I have two reasons for it. One is that I am very anxious to get her to pose for me for that new historical novel of Thaxin's, for which I am to make the illustrations. With the exception of one feature of her face she is the exact type I want for the heroine, and I can fix that up easily in the finished drawings. I can't very well tackle her about it with only one chance meeting, but if you get rather chummy with her and she's about the house a lot, I may be able to induce her to pose. You haven't any objection to playing around with her, have you?"

Fear that he might imagine I was jealous gave my voice an unwonted cordiality, an emotion which I was far from feeling.

"No, indeed," I said. "I imagine she will prove extremely interesting. Perhaps you noticed that I was most cordial in my invitation to her this afternoon when we were over there."

He nodded, a bit absently, waited for several seconds before he spoke again.

"The other reason is more fanciful," he said slowly. "Perhaps I am mistaken, but I am afraid one of those men—not the red-bearded one—he's simply a harmless satellite—but the other one—has some idea of extorting money from old Lincoln."

"I thought you said those two men in the shack were not dangerous," I commented.

"I said, 'not dangerous—to us,'" he retorted, and I realized that I had not imagined his hesitation before the two words. "There is no doubt that both old Lincoln—that isn't his name of course, but as he chooses to call himself that, we have no alternative save to follow suit—and this shorter man at Grimsey's shack are both Transvanians. I imagine that the man at the shack may know something about Lincoln which the old man wouldn't want spread around—perhaps some romantic adventure of his earlier years which he wants kept from his wife—it's a tribe not noted for its marital fidelities, and if so, that letter at which Miss Lincoln seemed so agitated today, might very well be a blackmailing demand for money from her uncle.

"Of course, this is all my imagination," Dicky went on, while I made the mental comment that he was protesting a little too much, "but it is a very plausible solution of the mystery which appears to hang around those two widely divergent households. At any rate, it won't be a bad idea to get on such terms with Miss Lincoln that she wouldn't be afraid to come to us at once if anything should happen to terrify her. But I am afraid I have kept you up an unconscionably long time. You have an early journey tomorrow. Shall I drive you to the station or have you arranged with Jim?"

His voice changed to such distant formality as he spoke of my projected journey the next morning to keep my appointment with my employer, Philip Veritzen, for the discussion of the new plans the great producer had brought back with him from Europe, that my answer was equally formal and prompt.

"I could not think of troubling you so early," I said. "I already have told Jim to get up and drive me to the train."

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

Saturday, October 29

Men asked the stars not only for guidance on the seas, but, as well, for an answer to the riddle of the Universe.—WILL DURANT.

A RATHER routine and unimportant day is the presage made from the minor operations of the planets.

These may be responsible for petty annoyances in employment, due largely to a tendency to irritability or impetuosity. This spirit may react in domestic, social or affectional contacts with more disastrous consequence, since Venus in unfriendly aspect with Luna magnifies the personal inharmony.

Those whose birthday it is may not have an unimportant year, unless they precipitate it themselves by irritability and rash moves. This proclivity will develop annoyances in employment and inharmonies and disturbances in home and heart affairs. Shun disputes and hasty words and deeds.

A child born on this day should be trained and disciplined to put a curb on tongue and temper, since these, if allowed free indulgence, may precipitate unhappiness and failure.

Notable Nativity: Thomas Francis Bayard, American diplomat.

Chewing the Food Is Necessary to Health

EVERYBODY has an idea about the size of the stomach. When you see a healthy boy eat his dinner you can well imagine it has unlimited storage space. As a matter of fact, its average capacity is about five pints.

DR. COPELAND

To prepare the food for swallowing and passage into the stomach, a great quantity of saliva or spittle is required. You will be astonished to learn that the amount of this fluid supplied by the glands of the mouth is about the same as the capacity of the stomach, five pints. During the whole 24 hours this liquid pours into the mouth.

The salivary fluid is more than 99 per cent water. About one-half of one per cent consists of solids.

Among the solids are certain substances the scientists call "enzymes." These are as yet not definitely understood agents, but they have the power to produce or excite chemical changes. In the case of the salivary enzymes they have a definite function to perform in relation to the food taken into the mouth.

I want you to understand enough about this process so you will see the importance of chewing your food. Then you will be anxious to help your digestive organs, instead of bolting the food and doing yourself harm.

The fruits, vegetables and cereals we take consist largely of starch. Bread, breakfast foods, potatoes, peas, beans and most of the other common foods are almost pure starch. Some of the grains of starch are packed away in firm envelopes of fibrous material. It is safe to say that half the things we eat are starch.

The body cannot handle starch. It is too complicated a compound to be absorbed and, before this food can be digested, it must be changed into sugar. To make this change the enzymes of the saliva are given us by kind nature.

We have strong teeth, some with cutting edges and others with grinding surfaces. The things we eat are cut and ground into fineness. At the same time the saliva pours into the mouth and by the chewing motion of the jaws it is thoroughly mixed with the food.

If you will continue to chew the food, you will notice pretty soon that it tastes sweet. That is because the starch has been transformed into sugar.

When the mouthful is swallowed the lump passes into the stomach where for a brief time the salivary enzymes continue to work. Whatever starch is left is taken care of by the fluids of the pancreas, or "sweetbread." But the more care you take to chew the food, the less will be the demand on this organ.

Lots of people suffer from indigestion because they fail to chew the food. Correcting this one bad habit may change discomfort and misery into good digestion and freedom from pain.

Unfortunately, decayed and painful teeth may make chewing an uncomfortable act. In that case there is a temptation to swallow the food, with almost no preparation. Of course, that throws too much work on the intestinal tract. Trouble is sure to follow.

You just cannot have perfect digestion and perfect health unless you observe the rules of right living. One of them is to eat slowly and not swallow the food until it is almost liquid because of the thorough chewing.

Answers to Health Queries

G. O. Q.—Will —— prove reducing and are they harmless?

A.—Since I am not familiar with the preparation you refer to, I cannot advise you concerning its effectiveness. If you watch the diet, restricting the amount of sweets and starchy food and taking plenty of outdoor exercise, you should notice reduction in your weight. For further particulars send a self-addressed stamped envelope and repeat your question.

J. H. E. Q.—Should eggs be included in the diet for one suffering from high blood pressure?

A.—Eggs are often eliminated under these circumstances. Your own doctor will outline a suitable diet for your particular case. Each patient should have specific attention and treatment.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

They Give Comfort

THERE'S one thing you'll discover as you go through this life—

HUMAN HEARTS AREN'T WORTH MUCH UNTIL THEY'RE BROKEN!

We don't like to acknowledge that fact. From our earliest consciousness we are taught that lives aren't successful unless they're happy. We lay our plans accordingly. Happiness becomes our goal. We avoid all risks which may endanger happiness. No compromise or surrender seems unworthy if it will avoid unhappiness.

Indeed, we have grown so fanatical in our worship of happiness that we actually regard unhappiness as a sort of disease. If we're not happy there must be something wrong with us.

It does not occur to us that unhappiness may be as normal and necessary a condition of growth as happiness. Or, that our personal reactions are of very little importance in comparison with our ultimate product and progress.

A seed doesn't have a very jolly time pushing itself through the earth, but Nature isn't concerned with that. She is only concerned with the fruit which that seed will some day bear.

A salmon tears itself to pieces ascending the rapids — but it leaves its spawn to stock the Seven Seas.

Human life, too, owes its development to just such, fierce struggles. We are safe now because we have come through countless dangers. We are strong and wise now because we have paid such tragic prices in the past for weakness and stupidity.

Every good thing we have has come through suffering and sacrifice and prodigious conflict. It has never come from ease or comfort. Yet, we persist in thinking that unhappiness is a curse.

A soul can be in travail as well as a salmon or a seed and it isn't worth much until it is.

Think of the happy people of your acquaintance who have never known any trouble. How tolerant are they? How sympathetic? How helpful in any painful emergency? What do they create that is lasting value?

Their lives are like pleasant sunny meadows which have never been broken to the plow. There is a shallow, flowery surface to their lives but there is no food or shade there for a starving man.

Hearts that have been broken are like ploughed land. Something has cut deeply into their soil, letting in the wind and the rain, opening them, fertilizing them. Sometimes, it is true, that after all they only bear nettles, but that is because the owner has kept them waste. But, if life has its normal, healthy way with broken hearts, great crops come. Tolerance takes root, and tenderness and courage and sympathy. That heart bears fruit for every passer by. Out of its owner's suffering comes strength and healing for a thousand other sufferers.

Broken hearts have a power and a mystery which happier ones never know. They are the seat of a new life. They have become one with the fruitful soil, and the teeming sea—and the Creator.

Hamburg Steak

Melt a chopped Spanish onion in a tablespoonful of butter, dust with pepper, salt, a little sugar, and when cooked lay over a pound of chopped steak. Dot the steak with butter, dust with pepper and salt and cover. Cook until the steak is done, then invert on a hot platter.

For the Lovelorn

By ELEANOR GALE

And How

DEAR MISS GALE:

I have never taken anything seriously. Life to me was just like a dream that has no awakening, and when some one would tell me that they loved and cared for some sweet "Miss" I would laugh and say it was only "puppy love"—a girl speaking about love to me meant as much as a sunny day means to an umbrella salesman. Still, one of my many girl friends kept right after me, taught me to love and care for her, but when I thought I was sitting on top of the world and thought that everything was sweet, fate stepped in and started forcing me down; at least, it has made me start a failing for the girl and I have quit keeping steady company. The other day she called me on the phone and asked me to come back to her. Of course she has quite a few new friends that would like to be steady. Is it right for me to ask her to give them up for me? "AND HOW."

You have no right to ask this girl to give up her other friends unless you are definitely engaged to her.

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am a young girl in my teens and I am in love with a fellow four or five years older than myself. Miss Gale, I like him very much, but I do not know how to get acquainted with him. Every time I wear him to stares at me. Just as though he wanted to talk. I know two of his boy friends, but if I ask to be introduced they'll keep kidding me and him, because they always do when I look at him. Miss Gale, I would like your advice on this question: Is it proper for a girl to wave at a friend who is across the street? Should a girl speak first to a boy if she knows him, or should he speak first?

CHICKIE.

Let the boy seek an introduction, my dear. If he is interested he will find some way of meeting you. He seems to have many such opportunities and if he hasn't availed himself of them, don't think too much about him. It is a girl's place to speak first. It doesn't look well to wave to a friend across the street. Nod and smile instead.

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

WHY HURRY LIFE

LIFE is—or ought to be—a Great Adventure, a beautiful, exciting, delightful game of chance!

* * *

But most girls seem awfully bored and a little sad nowadays. I wonder why! The glamour seems to have gone out of the game for them. There is no star-dust in their eyes!

* * *

Everything is so real, so material, so prosaic! Men are just something to dance with, to run about with, to "catch," to marry: "boy friends," "old dears," or "good spenders."

HELEN ROWLAND

Love is just petting or sex-appeal and applesauce. A kiss is just—a kiss.

I wonder if it is because they try to HURRY life so! To squeeze all the juice out of the fruit before it is ripe; to "live" before life comes their way.

* * *

If Youth but knew! Most women do all their real "living" after thirty.

It is then that we know how to handle the cards in the game. It is then that we love, write, work or play best. Up to thirty we are merely tyros.

* * *

But the young girl of today wants to know everything, experience everything, find out everything right at the start.

She is like a trunk that has never been farther than the first cross-road station, but has been pasted all over with foreign labels. She appears SO sophisticated, so blasé!

* * *

It's not knowing where a road or a love-affair will lead, that makes you want to follow. It's not knowing what "hand" Fate may deal you next that keeps you in the game!

* * *

It's not knowing who is at the other end of the wire that makes the sound of the telephone bell thrill you!

* * *

Youth is the spirit of adventure, of hope—that thrilling feeling that something delightful, new, unexpected and wonderful may happen to you at any moment. And its whole joy consists in never KNOWING what's just around the corner—or the next corner! Or the corner after that!

Better Than Whiskey for Colds and Flu

The most disagreeable and embarrassing part of a cold is that constant nasal discharge, which you can now stop in a few hours with Aspironal, the latest and most scientific "Liquid Cold Remedy."

Aspironal is guaranteed to stop the irritation that causes sneezing and nasal discharges; dispel the congestion and relieve grippy, neuralgic pains, at the same time causing a gentle and complete evacuation of the liver and bowels.

Aspironal is sold and guaranteed by all druggists. Get relief or get your money back. Sent direct if your druggist cannot supply it upon receipt of price, 50c. Aspironal Laboratories, Dept. 3, Atlanta, Ga.

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestants are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist some Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful of powder or four tablets in water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

We Float off the Broken "Crippled" Beans

ONLY perfect, whole beans of the finest high-altitude coffees are used in the blending of SWANSDOWN. This insures a rich, full-bodied coffee—aromatic and smooth—and always uniform in quality.

When the cover of a berry splits open too soon or the shell of a bean is broken, the flavor alters greatly. Failure to float off these "cripples" compromises the flavor of an entire roast.

SWANSDOWN, made from full-bodied beans only, is always uniformly smooth, rich and delicious. A meal is only as good as its coffee.

Movie Makers to Get Thrills With Duplication of Tragic Mississippi Flood Waters

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS,
(Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service.)

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 28.

BEHIND locked doors and with keyholes properly stuffed, a plan to film "Menace" has been created. "Menace," the idea of John Farrow, a young scenario writer at the Cecil B. De Mille studios, is a motion picture drama of what might happen if the Colorado River should suddenly decide to imitate the Mississippi and overflow its banks.

This spectacular movie, to be directed by Reginald Barker, will attempt to prevent such a catastrophe by showing just what the Boulder Dam can do to save the people living within a certain radius of the turbulent Colorado. Needless to say, this is an undertaking that will not be a matter of days, but rather the better part of a year. Four airplanes have been obtained for reconnoitering purposes and special engineers engaged to provide all the thrills necessary in a drama of this sort.

Victor Varconi and Marjorie Daw will hero and heroine respectively for "Menace." I thought when I heard of Mr. Farrow's association with the picture and of Victor Varconi's place in the sun, that it was a De Mille opus, but it seems that Bray Productions is making the film and Producers Distributors releasing it. They were loaned through the courtesy of the De Mille company.

The Loew's State Theater in Los Angeles is out for big time talent. If you don't believe me, list to this little advance information that was dropped into my attentive ear yesterday. Nora Bayes, incomparable and muchly married comedienne, and Kolb and Dill, comedians of international fame, have been engaged by Fanchon and Marco for their weekly revue. Miss Bayes appears here in person in mid-November while Kolb and Dill will save the theater from the pangs of a blue Christmas week by doing their stuff there December 16. Sometimes I wonder what is happening to our movies. Vaudeville is getting more and more of a foothold in the theaters and today the prologues receive almost as much attention as the feature attraction. I had thought this a local condition until I visited Broadway and found these helpers on the majority of picture programs. What's the answer? Who is prepared for the first word?

Vaudeville may win a screen actor for a few weeks, but it can never hope to hold any of our best known stars permanently. Lew Cody has had a grand time as a vaudevillian. He has played the country and been received in a manner that has delighted him. But Lew wants to come back to the movies and the movies want him. Harry K. Brown, his business manager, has gone to New York to consult with him about the Lew Cody Company. In other words, Lew is a business man. He is going in business for himself and will make his own pictures. The release, it is whispered, may be First National. I say Lew is a business man and I mean it. Some years ago he financed a corporation making "quickies" and what they did in actual dollars and cents is a matter of Hollywood history.

Beverly Hills turned out en masse to watch Marion Davies take a motor ride with Orville Caldwell. In that crowd were children, grandmothers, wives, aunts, cousins et cetera, all elbowing each other to see the movie made on Rexford drive. Most of these people were connected by marriage at least with the movies, but they seemed just as thrilled by watching King Vidor instruct Marion and her leading man as if they had never seen a film in the making.

There are plenty of small boys in the world who would enjoy being in F. W. Marnau's shoes. He just returned to Hollywood yesterday from a visit to the Ringling Brothers circus in Lynchville, Va., as the personal guest of John Ringling. When Mr. Marnau returned from Germany he let it be known that he wanted some real circus atmosphere so that he could film "The Four Devils," a circus story with some semblance of correctness. Hence the invitation in a real circus car. Mr. Marnau begins work for the Fox company shortly.

Adolphe Menjou has avoided an operation, but the doctors will not promise that he will be able to work for a few weeks. He is under observation and must remain on a very strict diet until he is well. That means his next picture is held in abeyance until December, but Adolphe is a good soldier and is taking his orders uncomplainingly. Meanwhile Ernest Vadja is adding finishing touches to the next Menjou scenario. Perhaps he will write in a good part for Kathryn Carver.

I don't know whether I am gullible or not, but I do get telephone calls and letters that are amazing. Yesterday a woman, who said she was a friend of Charlotte Bird, asked me to announce that Miss Bird had left for New York to get married. Miss Bird, you remember, was the young woman who attempted to break into the home of Richard Dix last spring and receive some front page publicity. Miss Bird said she was engaged to Mr. Dix at the time. "Who is Miss Bird going to marry?" I asked, always the enterprising reporter. "I can't give you his name—only he's very rich," was the answer. These unknowns are always rich and handsome and desirable.

The reports from the sick bed of Eileen Percy have not been very favorable the last few days. Her husband, Ulric Bush, is greatly concerned over her condition. He has been in constant attendance at the hospital, hoping each day to see an improvement. While Eileen's friends have attributed her illness to too great a devotion to tennis and too much strenuous exercise, her doctors are more inclined to regard it as sinus trouble. I suppose the doctors know, but it does seem that most of the girls who are tennis devotees have been sick this last summer.

"Frozen-Face"

BUSTER KEATON

Mr. Keaton has been engaged to appear in person next week in a stage act in the Penn, where his latest picture, "College," will be on the screen.

Sothern Coming and Opera Is On Bill

E. H. Sothern will appear in the Nixon next week. He is playing the star part in George A. Birmingham's Irish comedy entitled "General John Regan." Matinees are to be played Wednesday and Saturday.

New Artists, Myrna Sharlow, Louise Taylor, Ethel Fox, Hizi Koyke, Fernando Bertini, Giuseppe Barsotti, Edward Albano, as well as old favorites, will come with the San Carlo Grand Opera Company to the Pitt for eight performances next week.

Next week's tickets for "My Maryland" in the Alvin were placed on sale yesterday with the indication that the second week of the operetta also will reach record proportions. The next matinee of "My Maryland" will be tomorrow and the mid-week matinee will be Wednesday.

The Keith-Albee vaudeville program in the Davis next week features Roye and Maye, dancers, as the headliner. On the screen will be "Tell It to Sweeney," starring Chester Conklin and George Bancroft.

Newsreel Procures Pictures of Flight

A remarkable flight over New York by the dirigible Los Angeles is pictured exclusively in the current issue of International Newsreel. The Los Angeles left Lakehurst and flew to New York. She was accompanied by two airplanes in which were cameramen of International Newsreel, while aboard the Los Angeles was a third International Newsreel cameraman. On the roofs of tall buildings were half a dozen other International Newsreel cameramen, all of whom got remarkable pictures. Never before had the Los Angeles soared so low over the city. Sometimes it seemed as though the great airship would actually come in contact with the buildings. Hundreds of thousands of spectators were thrilled.

After she had made a complete circle of the city and been photographed from every angle, with the tall buildings as a background, the Los Angeles turned eastward, with Boston and Newport as her destination.

GALA HALLOWEEN FETE PLANNED FOR SHERIDAN

The Harris Amusement Company, following a custom inaugurated in some of their theaters last season, is to observe Halloween with a theater party Monday night in the Sheridan Square. This party is to take place during the 8 o'clock show and is to be the keystone around which the vaudeville and picture features will be grouped. The public is asked to attend in costume and the management of the theater plans to award prizes for the handsomest, most unique and most grotesque make-ups. They will be awarded by the audience, by applause which any particular costume may receive. Also there will be trinkets for both kiddies and grownups and Halloween hats for every one.

ENGLISH SINGING SEXTET TO GIVE CONCERT TONIGHT

The sextet of English singers, in a program of sixteenth and seventeenth century music, madrigals, motets, folk songs, ballets and other charming numbers, will appear in Carnegie Music Hall at 8:15 o'clock tonight. The program is given under the auspices of the Art Society.

Luna Makes 'Em Looney

Looking at the moon with a girl always makes a chap soulful. In this case the girl is Sally O'Neil, who has the title role in "Becky," and the mooning male is Owen Moore, who has a crook role in the photoplay.

Langdon Believes Public Wants To Laugh

"I believe," says Harry Langdon, First National comedy star, "that the public would rather laugh than cry any day. That's why I'm making comedies. I also believe that the comedy which is wholly human has the best chance of appeal to the masses as well as the classes. We are brothers—as well as sisters—under the skin. Humor can be appreciated by all sorts and conditions of men and women, but I am unalterably opposed to the vulgar jest. It has no place on the screen, in the printed page or on the stage.

"I aim to create roles that are just sufficiently away from the ordinary to be interesting, yet which partake so strongly of realism that they will be acceptable to the man on the street or the more pedantic type who finds his relaxation in humor."

"THE BEGGAR'S OPERA" HERE NEXT MONDAY

The Bortz DeLuxe Concert series opens in Carnegie Music Hall, Monday evening, October 31, with a presentation of "The Beggar's Opera." The company came here from London last month after a four-year run in the Lyric Theater. These artists have never been in Pittsburgh. The company of 35 will present the opera in costumes of the early part of the eighteenth century. This work was written just 200 years ago.

The Florentine Polyphonic Choir sang about two-thirds of its program last night in foggy Carnegie Music Hall, and then struck. There was great commotion in the foyer; Father Rossini said something about the honor of the choir and there was much waving of arms. The choir sat, then stood, and sat again, as much puzzled as the audience, the director left the stage, eventually returned, and the concert was finished to the amusement of everyone present.

These 40 men and women of Florence, in medieval costume, had real spirit. Their leader is Sandro Benelli, who directs with much vigor. His results are brilliant tone, that now and then slides from pitch, and broad phrases that seem rough hewn. He treats the choir more as individual voices than as symphonic ensemble, attaining thereby sharp contrasts but losing much in finesse. I was always conscious of the tracing of voices in the score, but missed that richness in color that we have learned to expect from the Russians. Signor Benelli can learn much from our Harvard Glee Club as to Palestrina; indeed his church music savors more of the operatic stage than of the Duomo in Florence.

The program itself was monotonous. There was a very melodic chorus of Perosi, the leading writer in Italian church music today; the Monteverde secular songs were among the best work of the choir. Signor Guido, Signore Quaranta, Cambi and Domar appeared as soloists, singing simply and effectively as all singers do who are not overtrained. Cav. Ulisse Mattey accompanied at the organ the few numbers that were not sung a capella, and played Bach Fugue during the intermission.

SILENCE SAVES FALL RELATIVE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—(INS.)—The constitutional rights of an individual not to testify in court if such testimony would incriminate him today saved M. T. Everhart, son-in-law of former Secretary of Interior Albert B. Fall, from telling the Fall-Sinclair conspiracy trial jury where he got $250,000 in Liberty bonds which he deposited to his father-in-law's credit in 1922.

Justice Frederick Siddons so ruled today after Everhart had refused to testify as to the origin of the bonds.

MRS. MARSHALL FIELD'S CONDITION IS IMPROVED

PARIS, Oct. 28.—The condition of Mrs. Marshall Field has shown great improvement during the past 48 hours, but the issue of her illness remains in doubt, Dr. Gross, her physician, said. The ultimate outcome, Dr. Gross stated, cannot be forecast for another 10 days.

American wild life is fast becoming extinct, and only the rabbit will remain, an article in The Sunday Sun-Telegraph magazine section predicts.

GIRL ROBBED ON VISIT HERE

Miss Anna Dougherty, 19, of Weirton, who came to Pittsburgh last night to visit at the home of Edward Boyle, 240 Jones avenue, won't soon forget her visit. While she and Mr. Boyle were en route to his home two armed Negro bandits held them up, taking $87 from the young woman's purse.

GIRLS TO FORM HOME CLUB

The "Home Makers" Club, an organization of young women of 18 and up, will be organized at a meeting in the Humboldt School, South Side, Thursday, November 17, in connection with the work of the Brashear Settlement, Holt street. The organization will be addressed by Dr. Juba Robin Goldsmith. Membership will be limited to 35.

Meetings will be held twice a month, each session to be addressed by a well-known speaker. After January 1, a small house will be taken over by the settlement and the young women will be taught the duties of the housewife.

DR. GEORGE M. KELLY DIES AT WASHINGTON, PA.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 28.—Dr. George M. Kelly, aged about 74 years, for almost half a century a practicing physician in this city, died at his home here. He was born at Claysville, a son of Dr. John W. Kelly, a prominent physician in his day. After attending Washington and Jefferson College he enrolled at Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, graduating in 1875. He practiced for a number of years in Pittsburgh. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Rose LeMoyne Kelly, and one sister, Mrs. George E. Lockhart, of this city.

When You Buy 'Fox' You Won't Get Rabbit

Here, girls, is a bit of good news. When you get your hosiery in the sheerest weaves of "dawn," "French nude" or "mist" and order first-class goods, you'll be sure that you are getting the real shades and that your stockings will not be "seconds."

And when you get a silver fox scarf you'll know that it's not just the skin of an O'Hara township rabbit.

Pittsburgh merchants and business men are about to organize a local Better Business Bureau and they will see to it that the customers will get honest goods and will not be victims of misrepresentation by a few dishonest dealers. At the meeting of the Merchants' Council of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday Edward L. Greene, general manager of the National Better Business Bureau, Inc., of New York, told the functions and operation of the organization which is fostered by the better class of manufacturers, merchants, financial institutions and newspapers in a nation-wide campaign for fair play in business and commonsense honesty.

I. D. Wolf, chairman of the Better Business Bureau Committee of the Merchants Council, named the following group chairmen to assist in organizing a Better Business Bureau here: H. C. McEldowney, W. M. Jacoby, Leo Lehman, L. T. Stevenson, L. Michaels, William M. Laird, Jr., A. W. Smith, Jr., Thomas F. Dunn, H. A. Keys, R. E. Grove, E. Fishel, P. J. Donohoe, I. S. Harris, R. E. Grove and F. A. Hegner.

WIFE DIVORCES POLICEMAN

Ines Hamscher, Middle street, was granted a divorce from her husband, Elmer H. Hamscher, Elmhurst avenue, a city policeman, in a decree handed down by Judge Nelson McVicar, who heard the testimony. The grounds were desertion. The wife stated that they were married in 1917 and lived together 10 months. She said her husband drank excessively, and that he had been "fired" from his job several times, but had been reinstated each time.

"Merrie England" is the title of a page of humorous sketches in color, drawn by the noted English artist, George Belcher, which will appear in The Sunday Sun-Telegraph, magazine section.

50 Thousand Skinny Men

To Put On at Least 5 Pounds of Solid Flesh in 30 Days

Countless thousands of underweight men and women have got rid of that scrawny face and figure by a simple easy treatment that is sure and inexpensive.

It's really marvelous how quickly those who try it take on flesh where flesh is most needed.

Hollows in neck and chest fill out and narrow sunken-chested men begin to take on a decided manliness in just a few weeks.

The one great scientific weight producer that people who need more flesh can depend upon is McCoy's Tablets and besides helping you to develop an attractive figure these sugar coated tablets bring to those that take them more energy, strength and vigor—they have proven a superb tonic.

McCoy takes all the risk—Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking 4 sixty cent boxes of McCoy's Tablets or 2 One Dollar boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—your druggist is authorized to return the purchase price.

The name McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets has been shortened—just ask for McCoy's Tablets at Mack's Drug Stores or any drug store in America.

EBDY STREET TRACT IS SOLD

Harry Mellon has sold to Joseph F. Cassale 107x158 feet of vacant land in Ebdy street, near Beechwood boulevard, Fourteenth Ward. The deed restricts the property to five single dwellings.

A brick house in Jefferson drive, Mt. Lebanon, lot 60x200 feet, has been sold by John S. Johnston to Franklin Mareney for a private consideration.

F. Lemoyne Page has transferred to George C. Campbell 22 acres along Squaw Run, O'Hara township, at private terms. Mr. Page also conveyed to the Fox Hills Land Company a tract of 123 acres in O'Hara township, at private terms.

The United States Realty Company sold for A. J. Ferree to A. Bagge one acre of ground in Anderson road, Shaler township, for $2,000. The purchaser will build a six-room house.

Building permit applications included:

Twenty-seventh Ward—C. W. Wright, brick dwelling, 1726-67 Kleber street, $14,000; G. Zappi, brick dwelling, 2319-21 Stanton street, $6,000.

Fifteenth Ward—L. Befoma, brick and stone dwelling, 875 Monteiro street, $5,000.

Tenth Ward—C. R. Johnston and A. J. Reel, frame dwelling, 5106 Schenley avenue, $2,500.

ASK DISMISSAL OF KLAN SUIT

Counsel for the Ku Klux Klan of Pennsylvania yesterday filed a motion in Federal Court asking that the amended defense and counterclaim filed against the klan by the Rev. John R. Strayer and other banished members be dismissed on the grounds that it was outside the court's jurisdiction.

Mr. Strayer, asking that the klan's charter be forfeited, charged that in seven years it collected $15,000,000 which was spent irregularly.

PROF. M'INTYRE NAMED TO TRAFFIC COMMITTEE

Prof. Lewis W. McIntyre, technical advisor for Pittsburgh's downtown traffic survey, has been appointed by Secretary Herbert Hoover, of the Department of Commerce, as a member of a national committee to consider the municipal traffic problem and to prepare a report and recommendations looking to a model city traffic ordinance. Secretary Hoover is appointing the committee at the request of the organizations participating in the national conference on street and highway safety.

A model state code, formulated by the Hoover conference, of which Prof. McIntyre was a member, has been adopted by the state of Pennsylvania as well as several other states in an attempt to bring about uniformity in state traffic regulations.

DRY AGENTS SEIZE STILL IN DESERTED RESIDENCE

Federal agents raided a former residence at 429 Denniston avenue yesterday, found it deserted and seized a 125-gallon still, 10 gallons moonshine and 24 barrels mash.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Wherever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, for only 75 cents. This can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

FIND SERUM AID IN PARALYSIS TREATMENT

The experience of the Children's Hospital in the present epidemic of infantile paralysis has indicated, it was learned today, that if sufferers are taken in hand within 48 hours of the appearance of the disease they can be saved, through the use of a serum, from its most terrible consequences.

Of 44 cases that have developed in Pittsburgh and the vicinity this autumn 25 were treated in the Children's Hospital. Only three of them were taken to the hospital within a day after the disease first manifested itself, and in their cases its progress was definitely arrested. The serum is effective, it was emphasized, only if used at the first onset of the malady, and as it is not easily diagnosed most of the sufferers are taken in hand too late.

The serum is compounded from the blood of infantile paralysis patients who have been suffering from it for six months. It is injected into the veins and spinal column. There are no bad after effects, not even a rise in the temperature. The serum is not a new discovery. It was used in France as long as 16 years ago.

In the Pittsburgh district, it was said, the epidemic is declining and will be entirely over in all probability by the middle of November. Advantage is being taken of the present opportunity to study it thoroughly.

Little stock is taken by the hospital researchers in the theory set forth in a New Castle dispatch to the Sun-Telegraph yesterday that infantile paralysis is transmitted by cats and other domestic animals. It was pointed out that monkeys are the only animals that it has been found possible to infect. Attempts have been made to inoculate cats, horses and other creatures, but they are seemingly immune.

The researchers are not even sure if the disease is caused by bacteria. Two men who have investigated the subject are of the opinion that the carrying agent is a different kind of organism.

Without minimizing the seriousness of the malady, a spokesman for the hospital directed attention to the fact that there are only 4,000 acute cases in the entire country at the present time. "Consider," he said, "how many more deaths we have from automobile accidents."

Since the hospital moved, a year ago, into its new building, which was paid for by the contributions of 22,000 citizens, more than 2,400 children have been cared for in the wards and private rooms and 12,000 have received treatment at the medical and surgical clinics of its dispensaries. These figures were presented by Mrs. Herbert DuPuy, chairman of the executive committee, at the managers' meeting this week.

A letter was read from the Department of Public Health thanking the hospital for the service it has rendered the city in combatting infantile paralysis. The managers' attention was directed to the need of an endowment for the laboratories in which serums are prepared and research prosecuted.

The hospital's training school, it was announced, has been chosen not only by the foremost hospitals in the United States, but also by the American Hospital of Paris for the training of nurses in the care of children's diseases.

PAINTER KILLED IN FALL FROM SCAFFOLD

George Washbaugh, 60, of 24 Greenbush street, was killed yesterday afternoon when he fell from a scaffold while painting a house at South Fifth and Carson streets. His skull was fractured.

ARE YOU a "TOXIC"

A Gripping of the Heart

A sudden gripping of the heart, then a feeling that it has stopped completely—that's a serious sign. Many people today suffer heart trouble as a result of system-poisoning. It comes from our abnormal living habits, which put too great a strain upon the "purification" organ, the liver. The liver becoming sluggish and congested fails to cleanse the blood of poisons formed in food waste. The whole system then becomes toxic, with stomach, kidneys, heart and blood vessels affected. The liver, especially at middle life, needs a little help, and there's nothing better for this, as physicians today know, than a little ox gall. Ox gall is a great natural stimulant for the human liver, promoting its normal active functioning, so essential to health and vitality. Dioxol tablets are genuine ox gall in dainty and tasteless form, each tablet representing 10 drops of pure ox gall. They cost less than 2c each at good druggists, and one or two days' use will prove itself. To be sure of getting the genuine ox gall, be sure of getting Dioxol.

RUNAWAY TRAIN WRECKS STATION

DEMOLISHED DEPOT AFTER $200,000 CRASH

A local train of the Peoria and Pekin Union Railway ran amuck in Peoria, Ill., the other day, and brought the entire train shed down on top of it when it rammed through the supporting girders. The shed was the larger part of the Peoria Union Depot and the damage is estimated at $200,000. No persons were injured.

3 SEIZED IN AUTO CHASE

A crowbar, an automatic revolver, a jimmy, punchbar and a screwdriver found in their automobile early today caused the arrest of Fred Hannon, 21, of 1328 Bradford avenue; Tony Marino, 22, of 1709 Boulevard of the Allies, and Gabriel Tacino, 23, of 1303 Forbes street. Sharpsburg police arrested them at Thirteenth and Main streets, after chasing them for two blocks from a private alley where the car was parked. They were turned over to county detectives for investigation.

MAN SLEEPING IN CHAIR IS KILLED BY TUMBLE

Paul Krolikowski, 23 Kelbs way, was killed last night when, while sleeping in a chair on the rear porch of his home, he tumbled 40 feet to the ground.

AUTO KILLS WOMAN, 63

Struck by an automobile as she was crossing Center avenue at Neville street last night, Mrs. Lydie Hughes, 63, of 219 North Neville street, received fatal injuries. She died in the Homeopathic Hospital an hour after the accident from a fracture of the skull.

S. P. Lockner of 916 Bryn Mawr road, driver of the machine, was released on $1,000 bail at the Oakland Police Station pending an inkuest into the accident.

ARREST SALOONKEEPER AND ROBBED CUSTOMER

George Usevac, 32, of 23 Shingiss street, and Harry Kress, 513 Wylie avenue, were arrested in Kress' saloon early today after Usevac told police that he had been robbed of $100 and a watch in the place.

1,000 DUQUESNE LIGHT EMPLOYES ATTEND BALL

More than 1,000 employes of Duquesne Light Company attended the annual meeting and masque ball in Syria Mosque last night when the annual election of the local section of the National Electric Light Association was held. Harry Dixon was elected president; W. A. Patterson, vice president; W. F. Fitzgerald, treasurer; Rose Peifer, women's affairs representative, and William Weir, James Kennedy, Christ Sullivan, O. J. Wofram, W. D. Keys and H. J. Howe, executive committee.

PITTSBURGH AUTO VICTIM DIES IN VALLEY HOSPITAL

Walter J. Barron, 65, salesman, of Clyde street extension, died in Allegheny Valley Hospital, Tarentum, today from injuries suffered last Friday when he was struck by an automobile near Creighton on the Freeport road. George H. Holmes, 323 Third street, Tarentum, whose car hit Barron, will be turned over to the coroner.

RESTAURATEUR HERE DIES

Alfonse Negri, 52, widely known Italian restaurant proprietor, died early this morning in the Pittsburgh Hospital. He became ill on Monday and was removed to the hospital on Tuesday when it was found he was suffering from pneumonia.

At the time of his death Mr. Negri was one of the proprietors of the Venice restaurant, 218 Diamond street. He formerly was proprietor of a restaurant at 248 Fifth avenue and of Negri's restaurant, also known as Kleman Inn, at Collins avenue and Broad street.

He lived at 7215 Travella boulevard.

"Merrie England" is the title of a page of humorous sketches in color, drawn by the noted English artist, George Belcher, which will appear in The Sunday Sun-Telegraph magazine section.

QUICK CLEANSING LATHER

means a perfect soap in warm

YOU WASH in warm water—certainly! But the way to find the best soap for warm water is to test it when the water is cold. You'll get instant, generous lather from Octagon Toilet Soap—even in cold water. Its cocoanut oil content assures a rich lather in any water—and a cleansing lather too. Your skin is left clean—and it feels clean. For Octagon lather removes not only surface soil but washes out each tiny pore as well. To be so fine a soap even in cold water, Octagon must be a perfect soap in the warm water you use daily. Octagon is just that! Use a glistening white cake of Octagon a few days on your hands and face—in any kind of water. See what joy this delicately scented toilet soap really is. Remember, too, that each Octagon wrapper carries a coupon that can be redeemed with your Fab coupons for valuable premiums. Yet the large, long-lasting Octagon cake costs only ten cents. PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Coming Out Party Added to School Set and Debutante Events of Crowded Holiday Fortnight

MORE replete than ever with festivity will be the holiday season this year. In addition to family entertainments, dances for members of the school set who will be home for vacations, several balls for debutantes are planned for this joyous fortnight, and a "coming out" party as well. For Frances, the pretty daughter of the Thomas Fitzgeralds of Fifth avenue, will make her bow to society on December 22 at a tea dance in the University Club, to be given, of course, by her parents. And by the way, it is indicative of the gay season Pittsburgh society is going to have this year that Frances will be the seventeenth bud to be presented to society. And there will be from five to ten more girls presented a little later in the season.

Frances expects that her sister, Mrs. Francis Perry Browning of Maysville, Ky., will receive with her. Mrs. Browning, you will remember, was Elizabeth Kettlewell Fitzgerald before her marriage this fall. And this popular deb has also asked her cousin, Mary Seldon, of Washington, to help her receive her guests. Mary, who came out in the capital several seasons ago, is well known in Pittsburgh.

To return to Frances herself, she chose Rosemary Hall as her finishing school.

Mrs. William D. George of Sewickley and her debutante daughter Elizabeth are in New York, I hear.

Speaking of New York reminds me that Mrs. John Hancock Nicholson of Shady avenue is also in Gotham. Her daughter Elizabeth, or Betty as her friends call her, is included in the list of debutantes for this year. Elizabeth is studying at Smith College.

New York has attracted two more prominent folk of the social set, Mrs. Richard Beatty Mellon and her daughter Sarah, whose wedding on November 16 to Alan Magee Scaife will be one of the most important and brilliant social events of the season, are in Gotham doing some important shopping, we suspect. They are expected back the latter part of the week.

Society will be interested next week in the benefit-bridge to be given by board of managers of the Eye and Ear Hospital on Tusday in the Hotel Schenley.

Mrs. Wilmer M. Jacoby and Mrs. John F. Walton are chairmen of the aides, who are Evelyn Fawell Evans, Margaret Priscilla Hall, Mrs. Louis Robinson Schmertz, Jr., Helen Leovy, Augusta Leovy, Margaret McClintic, Mrs. Rees Townsend Scully and Frances Schoen.

Both Mrs. Schmertz and Mrs. Scully were May brides. Mrs. Schmertz, whom you remember was Marcia Le Moyne, was married May 28, and Mrs. Scully, who was formerly Mary Shaw, was married May 12. And I recall that Mrs. Jacoby was a bridesmaid and Frances Schoen was maid of honor at Mrs. Schmertz' wedding, and that Augusta Leovy was one of Mrs. Scully's attendants.

Pittsburghers who remember Mrs. G. G. Glass and her son, Laurence C. Glass, formerly of this city, now of Bryn Mawr, will be interested in the engagement of Salome Vane Heulings, daughter of William H. Heulings, Jr., of Philadelphia and Cape May, to Mr. Glass. The announcement was made upon the return of Mrs. Heulings and her daughter from Europe. Salome went to Miss Hill's School and she is very proud that she is a direct descendant of Sir Harry Vane. Mr. Glass attended the University of Pittsburgh and the University of London.

Miss Katherine Tone and Miss Madeline Emich will be hostesses next Friday afternoon at the monthly meeting of the National Park Seminary Alumnae, in the Twentieth Century Club.

Court Duquesne No. 659, C. D. A., will hold a card party tomorrow afternoon in Kaufmann & Baer's. Bridge, "500" and euchre will be played. Miss Marion Friday is chairman and Miss Rose Kennedy, vice chairman, of the committee in charge.

Owing to the death of Dr. Adolph Belber, uncle of Dr. Samuel B. Goodstone, the reception to have been given Wednesday in the Concordia Club by Mr. and Mrs. E. Arch Cohen in honor of the marriage of their daughter, Miss Dorothy Cohen, and Dr. Goodstone, has been postponed.

* * *

The marriage of Miss Dorothy R. Maxson, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Charles P. Maxson of Mystic, Conn., and James Reed Gilmore, son of the late James Reed Gilmore and Mary Evans Gilmore of Sewickley, was solemnized Tuesday in the Little Church Around the Corner, New York. After a trip abroad, Mr. and Mrs. Gilmore will be at home in Sewickley.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Cecelia M. Nicholson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Nicholson of Ellsworth avenue, and Daniel J. Cuddyre, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Cuddyre of Miller street, Knoxville. Miss Irma Shaughnessy and James Romanell were the attendants. Mr. and Mrs. Cuddyre will be at home after November 1 in Mt. Oliver.

Steel City Chapter No. 241, Order of the Eastern Star, will entertain the patients at the Marine Hospital next Tuesday afternoon. A musical program will be followed by cards. Mrs. S. E. Donaldson is in charge.

The fall dance of the Mesta Club will be held tonight in the Rittenhouse with J. A. Weldon as chairman of the committee in charge. He is assisted by Miss Irma Harris, Miss Agnes Stewart, Miss Mary Best, Miss Ann Lewellyn, Miss Margaret Weghorst and Miss Mary Weir.

* * *

J. Lawrence Autenreith will entertain at dinner tonight in the Pittsburgh Athletic Club supplementing the rehearsal for the wedding of Miss Ada Dorothy Meckelnburg, of Bellevue, and Frank J. Autenreith, which will take place tomorrow. Last night, Paul Autenreith gave a dinner in the Pittsburgh Field Club for Miss Meckelnburg and Wednesday, Miss Betty Matter entertained with a dinner and bridge party. Mrs. J. H. Autenreith was hostess at a bridge luncheon last Saturday in her home in Farragut street for the same guest. Miss Janet Meckelnburg will be her sister's maid of honor and Paul Autenreith is to be best man.

CONGRESS DRAMA GROUP HEARS TALK ON THEATER

"If women want a better theater they will get it," said Clayton Hamilton in his address before the drama department of the Congress of Clubs yesterday. It was the monthly luncheon of the department at which the chairman, Mrs. Chester F. Johnston, presided with even more than her usual tact and graciousness. Mrs. Carl E. Coslowsky, Congress president, was engaged at a board meeting, but came in for a part of the program and in time to extend a welcome to the guests of honor, who included, besides Mr. Hamilton, eight members of the "My Maryland" company. These young people gave a sprightly program of entertainment, consisting of songs, one or two from their own production.

Mr. Hamilton called attention to the fact that for more than 20 centuries the drama was written almost exclusively for men and in the last 100 years there has been a distinct reversal of this. It is now an art designed by men almost exclusively for women. Matinee audiences are made up entirely of women and night audiences are made up entirely of women, plus the men they bring with them, Mr. Hamilton said, adding that a play will fail unless it appeals to women and appeal to them to such an extent that they will come again to see it and bring their men folk with them. "Women of culture and taste have preferred to stay away from the theater at a time when their presence was sorely needed. Vulgar women get their vulgar plays and patronize them," he said.

Mrs. Johnston announced a change in the date for the November luncheon meeting, which will be held on Saturday the nineteenth, with Elmer Kenyon, president of the Pittsburgh Drama League, speaking on current plays.

Mrs. B. G. Follansbee, of Bigelow boulevard, entertained the committee of management, the sub-committees and the staff of Central Young Women's Christian Association at tea yesterday in her home. A meeting at which Mrs. Samuel Black McCormick presided preceded the tea and was opened with prayer by Mrs. W. H. Cassidy. The various chairmen were introduced and spoke concerning their work. Mrs. Daniel M. Clemson sang two groups of solos with Mrs. Marian Deuel McDade playing the accompaniments. Miss Mame Stoner gave "A Backward Look" and Mrs. Ernest Calhoun "A Forward Look," while Miss Charlotte Wilcox, general secretary, outlined the association's purpose and Mrs. W. J. Gilmore spoke concerning the special lecture series. Miss Esther Hawes, metropolitan secretary, was another speaker, her subject being "The Y. W. C. A. in Pittsburgh."

* * *

Mrs. Reba Barrett Smith, national superintendent of the Florence Crittenton Homes, will arrive Sunday from her home in Alexandria, Va., to be a guest of the local Crittenton home over its donation day next Thursday. The board will receive the guests from 2 until 5:30 in the afternoon and from 7:30 until 10 at night. In the evening a musical program will be furnished by the altruistic section of the Tuesday Musical Club, under the direction of Mrs. Jean McCrory Newman. The home at present is caring for 11 girls and five babies and is doing a work, the scope of which can scarcely be reckoned by an unknowing public.

* * *

Mrs. V. W. Fugate, of Barnes street, was hostess yesterday for the meeting of the Thursday Afternoon Club of Wilkinsburg. Under the direction of Mrs. George Schmidt, Mrs. C. J. Holt presented a paper on "Influence of Radio on Civilization" and Miss Charlotte Atkinson discussed current events. Mrs. A. W. Pyle and Mrs. Theodore Baker were joint hostesses with Mrs. Fugate.

The Girls' 57 Club gave a phantom party in Heinz auditorium, Progress street, North Side, last evening. Miss Ruth Geiger gave a reading, Miss Marie Beitler sang, and a play was presented. Miss Catherine Bestic is president of the club, and Miss Mary Aiken, as chairman of the entertainment committee, arranged the details of the party.

The Woman's Club of Carnegie Institute of Technology will visit the international art exhibit next Wednesday and will be given gallery guidance by Mrs. T. Carl Whitmer. Hostesses will be Miss Elizabeth Helm, Miss Frances H. King, Miss Mary Watson Green, Miss Mary MacNair, Miss Susan T. Confield and Miss Gladys E. Riggs.

The Women's Auxiliary of the German Club of Allegheny will hold a card party at the club parlors next Thursday night. Mrs. Irene Weiterhausen is general chairman and is assisted by Mrs. John Kettle, Mrs. B. Lippert, Mrs. S. Shafer, Mrs. Emma Kenney and Mrs. W. Oswald.

At its meeting yesterday afternoon the Hazelwood Woman's Club heard a book talk by Miss Marion Price, Hazelwood librarian, and a reading by Mrs. George Massey. Mrs. Louis Lasday, hostess for the day, presided at the tea table during the social hour which followed the program.

A bake sale will be held tomorrow by the Berean Bible Class of St. John's Lutheran Church in the Pittsburgh Market. Mrs. Albert J. Stauff, Sr., the chairman, is assisted by Mrs. Louis Bohn, Mrs. Jennie Newcomer and Mrs. Charles Michel.

The purchase which had added most to the beauty of her home was named by each member at roll call yesterday at the meeting of the Roselyn Farms Woman's Club. Roll call followed and the talk given by Mrs. M. M. Redenbaugh on "The House of My Dreams," a talk which she illustrated with beautiful samples of tapestries, cretonnes and ther draperies. Mrs. C. P. Gallaher and Mrs. G. M. Flint presided at the table. Mrs. J. G. Hamilton was hostess.

Mrs. Elizabeth B. Motz, organizer of the Allegheny County League of Women Voters, is the speaker this afternoon at the meeting of the Squirrel Hill Community Club in the Roosevelt School.

The miserable marriage secrets of "Empress" Herminie and the ex-Kaiser, the squabbles, scandals and intrigues, are detailed in a double-page article in the Magazine Section, Sunday Sun-Telegraph.

'20-YEAR' CLUB OF M'CREERY'S HONORED

Members of the McCreery Twenty-Year Club were the guests of Alexander MacLachlan, president, and the McCreery Company at the club's annual dinner in the McCreery dining room last night.

Over 60 men and women who have been with McCreery for 20 years or longer—some since the inception of the store 23 years ago—were present.

Rev. Karl A. Stein, of the Grace Reformed Church, was the speaker, and J. Roger Fisher, toastmaster. The program included solos by Miss Elizabeth Heinl, Miss Dorothy Spreen and Mrs. L. Krueger, a dialogue by William Price, and a reading by Mrs. S. A. Canarils. Remarks and expressions of greeting were offered by Mr. MacLachlan; Haldane S. Fisher, vice president; F. C. Spreen, credit manager, and J. B. Swinney, superintendent.

New members received in the club were Miss M. Murray, Miss M. A. Hahn, Miss R. Durler, Miss Henrietta Joos and Robert B. Wisdom.

Officers of the club for the coming year are F. C. Spreen, president; Miss Minnie Jankosky, vice president; C. J. Buckley, secretary, and H. W. King, treasurer.

Directors for the new year are A. L. Bailey, W. J. Keller, Miss Mary Flavin, Miss M. B. MacMillen and Miss A. Ollerenshaw.

Accused of Desertion; He Denies Marriage

A mother was told in Morals Court today that the marriage she believed existed between her daughter and a young coal miner from Easton, Pa., never existed.

After Mrs. Rebecca Vanderbeck, of Miltenberger street, had testified that Edward Gettinger, 28, Easton, had deserted her daughter, 19, Gettinger denied they had ever been married. The daughter, it was testified, is in Magee Hospital in a serious condition following child-birth.

Magistrate A. D. Brandon, who was on the point of holding Gettinger for desertion and non-support when the defendant denied the marriage, held him for court on another charge.

Gettinger left the city, according to testimony, with the promise that he would procure employment and later return. He was brought back yesterday by police.

NON-CITIZEN WILL GET HEARING FOR OWNING GUN

Charles Hebick, farmer of Gibsonia, will face Justice of the Peace James A. Hernon in Sharpsburg Saturday, charged with owning a dog and a gun without being a full-fledged citizen. He has taken out his first papers.

CONFEDERATE DAUGHTER LEADER DIES IN VIRGINIA

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 28.—Mrs. Norman V. Randolph, honorary president of the United Daughters of the Confederacy and long active in the affairs of that organization, died early today at her home here. She was 79. Mrs. Randolph always frowned upon any agitation against Abraham Lincoln, Civil War President, when such discussion came at meetings. She said she believed "no good would come of it."

WOMAN INJURED BY AUTO ASKS $50,000

Rebecca L. Rudolph filed a suit in Common Pleas Court asking $50,000 damages for personal injuries against George B. Cook. Both parties concerned reside in Avalon. The plaintiff alleges that last September 25, at California avenue and Elizabeth street, Avalon, she was struck by the automobile owned by the defendant. By reason of her injuries which included a broken right leg, the plaintiff alleges that she was confined in the Suburban General Hospital at Bellevue.

S. A. Kane, 502 Talbot avenue, Braddock, in behalf of his minor daughter, Jean Kane, entered suit against F. G. Rach also of Braddock for $5,000 damages for personal injuries received by the minor child last July 14. The plaintiff alleges that the child was crossing Braddock avenue at Seventh street, when she was knocked down by an automobile owned by the defendant. By reason of her injuries she has a lump on her nose which will disfigure her permanently, it is claimed.

Jacob Finkelstein, 5528 Stanton avenue, entered suit against Louis Daniels for $10,000 damages. Finkelstein alleges that last September 15, Daniels came to his home and administered a beating, knocking him unconscious so that he was obliged to place himself under the care of a physician for treatment. The plaintiff alleges the assault was unwarranted.

MRS. WILSON TO AVOID FETES HERE

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, still in mourning for her husband, will take part in no social functions while in Pittsburgh on Armistice Day as the guest of the American Legion for the unveiling of the Wilson plaque in the corridor of the City-County Building. This was the news imparted to the committee of arrangements by Chairman E. Lowry Humes, and the plans for Mrs. Wilson's reception here are being made accordingly. It will be her first visit to Pittsburgh since she came here as a bride on the President's tour January 29, 1916.

Mrs. Wilson will unveil the bronze bas-relief sculptured by Paul Manship for the American Legion. The exercises will be held at 2:30 p. m., open to the public. Following the singing of "America," Dr. Carl E. McKee, county commander of the legion, will make the formal presentation and it will be accepted on behalf of the city and county by Mayor Charles H. Kline and Chairman Joseph G. Armstrong, of the board of county commissioners. Judge W. H. S. Thomson, of the Federal Court, will deliver the dedicatory oration and the exercises will close with the singing of the "Star-Spangled Banner."

Women members of Allegheny County Woodrow Wilson Memorial Committee who are arranging for Mrs. Wilson's visit are Mrs. Frederick P. Moore, state president of the American Legion Auxiliary; Mrs. C. L. Boggs, president of the Allegheny County Council of the Legion Auxiliary, and Mrs. James E. Flinn and Mrs. Case Foster, past presidents of the county council.

TWO-WEEK BIRD LIMIT SET

Only two weeks of bird shooting will be allowed Pennsylvania hunters this year. Never before has it been less than a month, and only a few years ago the season lasted six weeks. The fee is $2 now instead of $1.25.

Hunters applying early for their shooting licenses at the county treasurer's office are being handed cards stating that the state game commission has fixed the season throughout Pennsylvania for grouse, quail and woodcock to extend only from November 1 to November 15. The rabbit and squirrel season will run November 1 to 30 and deer December 1 to 15 as formerly.

About 6,000 licenses have been issued thus far but by Tuesday the opening of the season, it is estimated 30,000 hunters will have been licensed in Allegheny county.

ASK PERMISSION TO SELL FIRM

The Pennsylvania Trust Company as receiver of the Apex Products Company, 619 South Main street, filed a petition in Common Pleas Court asking permission to sell the concern to Adolph I. Ostrow, for $500, after 10 days' notice had been given to the creditors. The trust company was appointed receiver February 26, 1926. The court fixed November 15, as a date for hearing exceptions to the sale.

The Crawford-Williams Company, 5740 Baum Boulevard, filed a petition before Judge A. B. Reid, in Common Pleas Court, asking for a decree in dissolution. The signers to the petition were: Joseph I. Crawford, president, and W. Harry Williams, Jr., secretary, of the company.

FASCISTI TO CELEBRATE FOR MUSSOLINI HERE

Pittsburgh Italians, under the leadership of Cavaliere Giuseppe Castruccio, royal vice consul, will celebrate the fifth anniversary of Benito Mussolini's march on Rome and the coming of the Fascisti into power with a meeting at Memorial Hall next Sunday afternoon, followed by a banquet at the Hotel Schenley. The principal speaker at the banquet will be Count Vittore Siciliani, royal consul general.

DENY RED CROSS DRIVE AGENTS PAID HERE

"The Pittsburgh Chapter of the American Red Cross, which covers all of Allegheny county, never has paid and does not pay one cent to any canvasser or solicitor in any of its financial or membership campaigns," said Augustus K. Oliver, roll call chairman of the Pittsburgh Chapter, in discussing the statement issued by Rear Admiral Charles P. Plunkett, who refused to permit the Red Cross to solicit memberships in the Brooklyn Navy Yard, of which he is commandant. Admiral Plunkett intimated that one of his objections was based on the fact that he understood the Red Cross employed paid solicitors to collect memberships in the roll call.

"Just what the conditions may be in Brooklyn, I do not know," said Mr. Oliver, "but it would be most unfortunate and unfair if the publication of Admiral Plunkett's statement here would lead the people of Allegheny county to believe that any of the thousands of roll call workers who will go from house to house on November 11 were being paid for their services. Practically all of these canvassers are women and every one of them is a volunteer, serving without expectation of any reward or recompense save that which comes from the satisfaction of performing a service to the community, the nation and mankind. For them the roll call committee bespeaks a reception in keeping with the splendid spirit in which they, at the sacrifice of time, effort and personal convenience, have enrolled as volunteers in the army of 'The Greatest Mother in the World.'"

BANDIT CAPTIVES SEND PLEA FOR TOBACCO

RABAT, Morocco, Oct. 28.—(AP.)—The kidnaped relatives of Resident-General Steeg and their two women companions, who are being held prisoners by Moorish brigands in the middle Atlas range, have succeeded in smuggling out a note to the authorities, their greatest cry being for tobacco.

The note, written in pencil by Yves Steeg, nephew of the Resident-General, was sent by a special Moor runner. It read: "We have not been mistreated, but the women prisoners are greatly fatigued. If possible send us quinine, and especially tobacco."

The women prisoners are Madame Marie De Prokorov, a young Viennese, and her mother, Baroness De Steinheil. The fourth prisoner is Jean Maillet, a relative by marriage of the Resident-General.

Negotiations concerning the ransom of the captives are going on, the greatest difficulty being the inability of the tribesmen themselves to come to an agreement as to the amount to be asked.

SOUTH TUNNELS GROUP GROWS

More than 1,000 men and women of Allegheny county have become members of the South Hills and Chartiers Valley Tunnels and Ferry Street Bridge Association, according to a statement by T. Clifton Jenkins, president. The organization is seeking support for a bond issue to build a bridge across the Monongahela River to Saw Mill Run boulevard involving two systems of tubes and emerging finally on Banksville road.

Support for the project is coming, Jenkins said, not only from the 16 boroughs and townships in the southwestern area, which will be directly affected, but from southeastern sections as well.

DINNER TO WOOD POSTPONED

HARRISBURG, Oct. 28.—The testimonial dinner for Col. Eric Fisher Wood, chairman of the executive committee of the Republican state committee, has been postponed until November 21, according to announcement yesterday by Walter J. Lloyd, chairman of the committee.

The original date for the dinner, November 17, is the same as the date of celebration of Founder's Day at the Union League, Philadelphia. Gov. Fisher and other prominent Republican leaders, expected to attend the Col. Wood dinner, have also promised to attend the Union League dinner. This conflict prompted the postponement.

CENTRE COUNTY FARMERS OPPOSE DEER SLAUGHTER

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Oct. 27.—Despite the rapid increase of deer and damage to crops by their rovings, farmers of Centre county are opposed to the suggestion of the State Game Commission that expert marksmen be sent into the county to kill off surplus does. A questionaire sent by the commission to land owners adjacent to the mountains where deer are most plentiful asked if they wished the does killed. Only one asked that the deer be killed. It is estimated that 5,000 does could be killed in this county without affecting the crop of bucks for next season's hunting.

GAS STATION ROBBER GETS 14-YEAR TERM

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Oct. 28.—Lynn Arbogast, Elkins, found guilty of robbing a gasoline station, was taken to the state penitentiary yesterday to serve 14 years. Arbogast escaped from jail while waiting trial and was recaptured at Thomas, W. Va.

UNPAID COACH URGED BY YALE ALUMNI WEEKLY

Tartans to Test Skill as Mountain-Climbers Tomorrow

★ SUN-TELEGRAPH ★ SPORTS ★

CLEVELAND GETS STAR

CLEVELAND, Oct. 28.—Fulfilling his promise to give Cleveland one of the strongest quintets in the American Professional Basketball League, Max Rosenblum last night announced that he had signed Vic Hanson, former Syracuse University star to play this season. Hanson is under contract to join the New York Yankees next spring.

THROUGH the SPORTLENS by HAVEY BOYLE

Havey Boyle.

JUDGING from the collegiate demonstrations coming from dissatisfaction over various football coaches, the time will come when the selection of the football coaches will be put up to the undergraduates and alumni to forestall that criticism which comes when old Siwash runs into a bad football year.

In the future the shrewd athletic council will call a meeting of the alumni, or that part of it which pays some of the freight, and will invite to this meeting the undergraduates, at which time the head of the athletic council will say:

"Boys, there are at the present moment 50 gridiron tutors on the loose. I shall now read the salaries asked by the various men now unattached and will follow this with a report of our athletic finances. After you get this report, I shall repeat the virtues and vices, the successes and failures of the various football mentors, and after you digest these remarks we shall put the matter to a vote—with a majority carrying the election."

THE undergraduates and the alumni who annually stage their demonstrations over repeated failures of their football teams in such a way would be put in a pretty pickle, so to speak. With no one to pass the buck to they would have to sit silent while they suffered the terribly ignominy of their football club losing game after game to football clubs which, as a general rule, have better players.

IT ISN'T very good advertising that large schools get when the papers begin headlining that this coach and the other is threatened with official decapitation because a few games have been lost. It is these demonstrations which show, better than anything else, that football is taken far more seriously than it should be.

IN certain cases of great dissatisfaction over the football coach, I suppose, the demonstration may come spontaneously, but in a great many cases it is a safe bet that the students and alumni get worked up over the terrible disgrace of a poor football season through the enthusiastic machinations of a small group in the councils of the school, which has decided that "something should be done." The small group gets to work, spreads its propaganda, and pretty soon students who ordinarily can take their football or leave it alone, begin doing snake dances in protest over the awful demon who presides over the doings of the football club.

THE case of Mr. McLaughry, at Brown, is unique. Last season Mr. McLaughry, blessed, probably, with fine talent in the line and in the backfield, coaches his team to a place where it was considered one of the best in the country. It went through undefeated. This season Mr. McLaughry's boys have taken three good wallops on the chin and there is now a movement on foot to see if Mr. McLaughry, hailed last year as a very wizard, is of common clay, after all.

THE great flood of protest rising around Columbus and sweeping into adjacent Ohio cities over the awful debacle suffered by Ohio State at the hands of Michigan is a second instance of the great strain under which the boys go during a football campaign. And then there is the rumble closer to home, coming from the fact that Hugo Bezdek is, as a coach, considered on the wing grata by some of the boys.

Before we in Pittsburgh assume too lofty an attitude toward all this let us recall that as recently as last year there were whisperings that Dr. Sutherland was a man, who somehow, could not win every game, over which there was a yowl or two.

Elis Want "Amateur"

By Universal Service

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 28.—Yale is urged to return to the old system of maintaining amateur unpaid football coaches by an editorial that appeared in the Yale alumni weekly last night. This move is suggested when a successor is selected to take the palce of Tad Jones, the present head coach. The editorial advises that other colleges be asked to join Yale in the movement, which is expected to shield football from many attacks by the critics of anything having the appearance of professionalism.

"When," reads the editorial, "in consequence of Tad Jones retirement at the end of the football season, Yale looks about for his successor as coach of the football menage, we hope that full consideration will be given to the question as to whether Yale cannot at that time make a radical change as regards football coaching and go back to something like the unpaid coaching system of former days.

"There is much to be gained in spirit and in undergraduate self-reliance by such a course, though no doubt, many of our readers would not agree with us that there is as much to be gained as we believe there is.

"The greatest obstacle to such a course is the public opinion that demands victories and that considers that the only way to get them is to hire the best coaches and put the responsibility for the season on them. This of course, is putting the methods of outside business competition into undergraduate sports."

string eleven will be missing next fall, Maglisco, Maddox and Meyers, all linemen, and Pinkerton and Flennicken, backs, completing their courses next spring.

MANY SEEK BO

As was printed exclusively in the Sun-Telegraph some weeks ago, the board of trustees decided to retain the Southern gallant and former Center College star without a vote of protest. It has been said that religious differences were making things somewhat unpleasant for Bo at Geneva, and that there were those who would be glad to see McMillin "out." Maybe there still are a few who would kick up their heels with glee if Colonel Bo were to be released, but as they have no say in the matter, the Colonel stays—providing one thing. That one thing is this—

The Colonel has to accept the contract. The supposition is that he will and that Geneva can look forward to two or three more banner years of football. He could not be reached last night by those who would ascertain his views on the subject of sticking at Geneva, but they say that he'll put his John Hancock on the well known dotted line at the first opportunity.

Several other schools are reported to have been bidding for Bo's services. The names of these could not be learned, though at one time, it was confidentially reported to your correspondent, that Penn State was seeking the Colonel. This was yarned about the time Bucknell booted the Lions. Right now, you couldn't get Bezdek away from State with a charge of dynamite.

GENEVA PLEASED

While Geneva and its adherents are cheering the planned retention of McMillin, the tri-state district football teams are preparing for a week-end of action. Carnegie Tech will leave this afternoon en route for Morgantown, where West Virginia is to be played tomorrow. The Tartans are scheduled to spend the night in Waynesburg, where Katy Easterday and his Yellow Jackets hold forth. The Jackets are out of town for the week-end, meeting Georgetown at Washington, D. C. Just what benefit Wally Steffen expects to get from having his team spend the night in a locality teeming with the Pitt influence applied during the past few years by Easterday in hard to figure.

Jock Sutherland isn't taking his Pitt team out of town for the few hours remaining before the game with Allegheny in the stadium tomorrow, but he gave 'em a fairly long signal drill yesterday and will turn them loose for another today. The Methodists will not arrive in town until Saturday morning, figuring they can hold Pitt to a score under the fifty mark as easily by sleeping in Meadville as bunking in Pittsburgh.

DUKES ARE READY

The Durable Dukes of Duquesne, who, with Tech, face hardest task ahead of a Pittsburgh school tomorrow, will show Westminster an aerial game of real class. I have the word of Johnny Weibel that the Dukes, despite injuries, are just about ready to awaken from their lethargic offensive state with a bang, and bang over a few touchdowns p. d. q.

Joe Harris to Hunt In Home County Woodlands

FRANKLIN, Pa., Oct. 28.—Joe Harris, Pirate first sacker, is "all set" for the hunting season. Stopping in the midst of a game of billiards last night, Joe said he would spend his hunting season right here at home, in Venango county's woods. Steve O'Neill may be over from Cleveland to help him chase the cotton tails and quail, he said. Harris has put on 10 pounds since he left Forbes Field a few weeks ago.

"I'll work part of that off next week, wait and see," he said.

His appetite is good, and he never felt better, he said. "I was a little tired out after the series, but am o. k. now."

CHILLY SAUCE By CHILLY DOYLE

As the lad went on his way
For a four-year strut at Dear Ol' Rut,
Where football rules the day:
"My son, you're off to college now
With culture as your share;
Take ev'ry tip of sportsman ship
In all that's fair and square;
Remember, too—and this will put Poor losers all to shame—
'It isn't a case of win or lose,
But how did you play the game.'"

Filled thus with pretty thoughts from dad,
The boy jumped on the train;
He felt that he would make the team
And many a ten-yard gain.
But as he rode he spied a fresh
Sport extra, which he spread
Before his football countenance—
Here's what the headlines said:

"PENN STATE STUDENTS RISE AGAINST BEZDEK. WANT TO TAR AND FEATHER HUGO AFTER STATE LOSES TO BUCKNELL.

"DEFEAT OF OHIO STATE BY MICHIGAN CAUSES RIOT AT COLUMBUS AND OTHER OHIO TOWNS. OLD GRADS READY TO TURN COACH WILCE OVER TO CHICAGO GUNMEN TO BE GIVEN A RIDE.

"TUSS M'LAUGHRY'S UNDEFEATED IRON MEN OF LAST YEAR LOSE ANOTHER GAME AND CULTURED BROWN STUDENTS DENOUNCE COACH AFTER SQUAWKING LONG AND LOUD OVER DEFEAT."

BAN JOHNSON'S successor is soon to be named. It is an affair of the American League, but this writer is one National Leaguer who would rejoice if Billy Evans were to receive the appointment. Little has been said about Evans and it may be that his name will not be among those considered, yet Evans has done a lot for the sport. His untarnished character coupled with his ability have made him a high spot in the Johnson circuit for almost a quarter of a century.

ONE of the most forceful baseball men in the country—a man that does not have to bow to Judge Landis or any other brilliant personage, is a part of the game on the Pacific Coast. Reference is made to William H. McCarthy, president of th Mission club of the Pacific Coast League and the same big fellow who battled William Wrigley and everybody else who showed fight in a situation that concerned him.

MCARTHY could have gone along as president of the Coast League had he been willing to remain quiet while the moneyed men of the circuit were making moves he knew were against the best interests of the game. McCarthy fought syndicate ball; he defied the magnates of the coast, there could be but one ending to his actions, but he welcomed the defeat that came to him, for he was fighting for an ideal. If McCarthy were in authority in the majors he would make a hit with the fans.

PENNSY SMALL GAME SEASON OPENS TUESDAY

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 28.—(AP.)—Thousands of Pennsylvania hunters are preparing for the opening of the small game season next Tuesday. Rabbits probably will furnish the chief sport. The big game hunting will begin November 15, with the opening of the season on bear over one year.

The season will be entirely closed to the shooting of Hungarian partridges and reed birds, the game commission announced. The latter are protected under federal law.

Length of season and bag limits for the various kinds of game are:

November 1 to 15—Woodcock, four a day, 20 a season; wild turkeys, one a season; ruffed grouse, three a day, 15 a season; ringneck pheasants, male, two a day, six a season; bob white, gambel and valley quail, eight of the combined species a day, 25 a season.

November 1 to 30—Black, fox or gray squirrel, six combined a day, 20 a season; rabbits, five a day, 30 a season; hare, three a day, 15 a season.

field was made up of Abner Dalrymple in left, Tom Brown in center, Jack Coleman in right and Ed Beecher as reserve.

After McKinnon's death Carroll and Kuehne took turns covering first base, but after a short time Barkley was stationed there permanently, Smith was shifted to second base and Kuehne became the regular shortstop.

BROWN, though starting as a regular in 1887, his third year with the locals, did not last out the full seaso , but was released to Indianapolis in August of that year.

Later he played with Louisville, Boston and Washington, ending his big league career as manager and center fielder of the Washington American League club in 1896.

Tom became one of the umpires in the New York State League and also with Tri-State League when the later had a strong circuit operating independently of organized baseball.

Brown also wa a member of the A. G. Spalding party that made an around-the-world trip in the fall and winter of 1888-1889.

SPALDING had previously gone abroad with the first foreign invaders, the Boston club in 1874, and after the season of 1888 he took two, teams around the world, the Chicago Nationals and a club known as the All-Americans.

The Spalding team was made up of John K. Tener, former Governor of Pennsylvania, Dr. Mark Baldwin, now a surgeon in Pittsburgh, Anson, Williamson, Burns, Daily, Ryan, Pfeffer, Sullivan and Pettit. On the All-Americans, in addition to Brown, were Ward, Healy, Crane, Earle, Manning, Carroll, Wood, Fogarty, and Hanlon.

RUMORS of changes in college football coaching jobs continue to go the rounds. That's the sort of talk you hear about any college team that happens to have an off season, but this time the reports appear to be more than ordinarily well-founded, and one of them affects a local man, in the person of K. D. Shroyer, formerly of Carnegie Tech, and now coaching at Franklin and Marshall after a similar engagement at Western Maryland.

It is said that F. & M. will seek a new coach for next season, and a similar report comes from Lehigh, where the $16,000 three-year contract of Percy Wendell, former Harvard player and Williams coach, terminates this fall.

A queer angle to the situation is that Lehigh and Franklin and Marshall are seeking the same man for coach next year, the mentor sought being E. E. Mylan of Lebanon Valley, whose team contributed one of the season's surprises last Saturday by beating Tuss McLaughrey's Brown eleven. Lebanon Valley is said to have the inside track for Mylan's services, as that college is his alma mater.

Lehigh and Franklin and Marshall all has each won only one game in two seasons under the coaching of Wendell and Shroyer, respectively.

ANOTHER boxing center has adopted the system of having the timekeeper take part in the counting over a fallen fighter.

At the Olympia in Detroit the timekeeper now starts the count while the referee takes the upstanding fighter to the farthest corner from the point of the knockdown.

The count will continue while the referee is doing this, and when the referee returns to the fallen boxer he will pick up the count from the timekeeper and check off the seconds in unison with him until he has reached ten or the floored man has regained his feet.

SHOTS and PASSES by Julius Levin

BUS RITTER, former star at Sharpsburg High School, is the latest addition to the Sharpsburg Y. M. C. A. basketball team, which will compete in the West Penn League this winter.

Ritter, during his days at Sharpsburg High School, played a brilliant game at forward and he is expected to add considerable strength to the Y. M. C. A. squad this season.

The Sharpsburg Y quintet this winter will be composed of stars from three boroughs, Sharpsburg, Etna and Aspinwall.

THE Webster Hall team, recently admitted to the West Penn League, will begin practice tonight with a squad of 19 men out for regular positions. Those who are expecting to find the Webster Hall passers a stepping stone for the other contenders in the West Penn League race this winter may receive a rude surprise, for the Oaklanders are said to have several capable basketball stars on their roster.

DRIBBLES

Mock Linton, former tennis star at the University of Pittsburgh, has been chosen manager of the Young Men's Hebrew Association quintet.

Four of last year's members, namely the McKeesport Cyclers, Enoch Rauhs, Duquesne Pinks-Lafayettes and Goose Goslins, will retain their franchises in the Allegheny County League this season.

Girls' basketball will be one of the features at the South Side Market House. Meyer Goldenson having entered his Vanities in the race for the local feminine championship.

Bill Miller, captain-elect of the Enoch Rauh Club, is keeping in excellent shape for the basketball season and hopes to enjoy the best year of his career.

Al Underwood, prominent organizer of amateur leagues in this section, is being kept busy lining up the various circuits. Wednesday Underwood went to Springdale to organize the Allegheny Valley League.

The John H. Irwins, last year a member of the West Penn League, will be known as the Schenkler club of the North Side this winter. The Schenklers will play in the Central League and will be under the management of Joe Goetz.

Tom Winnie, popular Homewood basketball manager, will pilot the Homewood Presbyterian Church team in the West Penn League this winter. The team last year was known as the Homewood Business Men.

Art Ritenbaugh, well-known Lawrenceville manager, will handle the reins of the M. G. Leslie Club, formerly called the Dad Beigle Five. The Leslies will operate in the Central League.

The Tempest Club is desirous of booking games with light first-class teams. Write Milton M. Morris, 2845 Shady avenue, or call Hilland 1926 between 6 and 6:30.

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

ALMOST hidden in an obscure corner of the newspaper sport pages in many cities yesterday was a dispatch from Washington that "Thomas T. Brown, once manager of the Washington baseball club," had died there of tuberculosis at the age of 67.

To the younger fans this meant only the passing of one of thousands of old-timers who had once played in the big leagues, but to the veteran followers of the diamond sport the death of Brown recalled the days when Tom was one of the most noted players in the majors, famous for his base-stealing ability in general, but being a crack outfielder and a clever performer in other departments of the game, though there was only one year, 1885, when he batted above .300.

IN THOSE days the name of Tom Brown was one of the most famous in the country, and it holds a particularly prominent place in Pittsburgh baseball history because he was a member of the first club that ever represented this city in the National League.

That was in 1887, when this city took the place of Kansas City in the present Heydler circuit.

Prior to that, Pittsburgh had been a member of the American Association from 1882 to 1886, inclusive, and Brown had been obtained in 1885, along with Ed Morris, Frank Mountain, Fred Carroll, Rudolph Kemmler, Jocko Feld, Billy Kuehne and others, when Pittsburgh bought the entire Columbus (O.) team. In the same year the local management purchased Pitcher Jimmy Galvin from Buffalo, and Hank O'Day, the present umpire, then a pitcher from Toledo.

AS a member of Pittsburgh's first team in the National League, Brown had as club mates several players whose names became famous in baseball. The catchers were Fred Carroll, "Doggy" Miller and "Jocko" Fields; the pitchers were Ed Morris, Jimmy Galvin, Jim McCormick and Billy Bishop; the infielders were Alex McKinnon, at first base until his death, in July 24 of that year, Sam Barkley at second base, Arthur Whitney at third base, Pop Smith at shortstop and Billy Kuehne as extra man, while the out-

GENEVA'S BOARD WANTS "BO"

By JESS CARVER.

LOOKING forward to the 1928 season, when Geneva College will tackle a schedule of 10 games, seven at home and three abroad, the board of governors of the Covenanters at a meeting held yesterday decided to tender Coach Alvin (Bo) McMillin, whose three-year contract expires this fall, another contract for one year, calling for the same terms as the old one.

BO M'MILLIN

McMillin is reported to be well satisfied with coaching conditions at Beaver Falls and the signing of the new papers are expected to be a mere formality. When interviewed this morning, McMillan said he had not received official word of the board of governors' decision, but was satisfied to remain at Geneva next fall.'

McMillin's team next fall will tackle one of the most pretentious schedules ever mapped out for a Geneva eleven. Bucknell, Western Maryland, Grove City, Allegheny, Thiel and Duquesne being met in Reeves Stadium at Beaver Falls and Waynesburg, Boston College and Westminster on foreign gridirons.

Five members of this year's first-

AL MAMAUX

When Manager Walter Johnson assumes active charge of the Newark Bears he will find among his sharpshooters a native Pittsburgher who happens to be the best pitcher in the International League. Albert Mamaux, late Prince of Dormont and a star with the Pirates about 10 years ago, had a remarkable season for Newark, yet, strange to say, he is not excited over the prospect of a major league berth. An admirer of Johnson, Mamaux will be an ace for Walter if he remains with the club. All dressed up like the Prince of Wales and wearing spectacles, Albert covered the world series for a Newark paper.

SCHOOLGRID TEAMS IN CLASHES

By VERNON A. SWARTSFAGER

WHILE there only are two City League contests booked for this afternoon in scholastic football, there are a number of good games throughout the district on the card.

The best of the two engagements should ensue between Perry and South Hills on the latter's grounds at Warrington Park in Section II. In Section I, Fifth Avenue and Westinghouse clash, much to the satisfaction of the Silver Lakers, who hope to clinch the honors of the circuit today.

There will be a little experimenting done on the Oliver High School grounds. Schenley, second strongest team from present indications in Section I, tackles Oliver, leading contender for the Section II honors, on the North Side. It will give the Oliverites a chance to find out what is going on in the section they will oppose November 18 for the championship.

The clash between Elizabeth and Clairton is causing a wealth of interest in the Monongahela Valley. The rivals likely will make it a bitter battle.

Class teams of the new Catholic High School are slated for an intramural struggle on the Schenley oval, beginning at 3 o'clock. Intra-mural sports at the new school are being given great stress, and is meeting with great approval from the students.

Of the other games, Dormont will journey to McKees Rocks with a rejuvenated team—or so it is said. Coaches Glass, Loeffler and Carol seem well pleased with the squad's visible improvement, which was evident when they beat Crafton 12-0 for the first time in five years last week.

Shady Side Academy, suffering with the loss of Capt. Hal Shekels and Hudson, both star linemen, struggles with Braddock on its gridiron at Aspinwall. The team hopes to carry off another triumph.

Carrick goes to Arnold's field for a battle; Carnegie comes up to Bellevue; Oakmont visits Verona; Duquesne invades Homestead and Ben Avon travels to Monaca. There are, of course, many other games throughout the tri-state district.

Allegheny and Peabody play most formidable opponents on foreign fields tomorrow. Allegheny tackles Greensburg and Peabody tackles New Castle. New Castle and Greensburg are as formidable contenders for Washington's W. P. I. A. L. crown as Washington is itself. Langley and Crafton battle at Crafton in what promises to be another sight worth seeing. Avalon travels to Ambridge.

Youngwood called off its game with Parnassus, carded for tomorrow, out of respect to one of the members of its squad who died last week.

DANCE FOR GRIDDERS

The members of the Allegheny College Club of Pittsburgh will attend the Pitt-Allegheny football battle in the Stadium tomorrow in a body and after the game will act as hosts to the members of the squad at a dance at the University Club.

SPEAKING of SPORTS by HARRY KECK SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS EDITOR

HAVE to hand it to the schedule-makers of the University of Pennsylvania for ribbing up a nice easy schedule with a lot of let-down games for the boys. In the last three weeks the Quakers have played Brown, Penn State and Chicago, losing the last two games. This week-end they meet Navy and next week they encounter Harvard.

The last time Penn and Harvard met was in 1905, when the Red and Blue won, 12 to 6. Penn also vanquished the Crimson in 1904, 11-0, but Harvard holds the edge in the series of battles between the pair, with 13 victories against seven.

TOMORROW will be "natural rivalry" day for the football teams of this section. Only one of them, Waynesburg, plays outside its own territory, the Yellow Jackets meeting Georgetown at Washington, D. C. Pitt meets Allegheny at home, Carnegie Tech engages West Virginia University at Morgantown and the Dukes play Westminster at New Wilmington, while Wash.-Jeff. and Thiel hook up at Little Washington and Geneva locks horns with Bethany at Beaver Falls. Grove City remains at home, playing Adrian (O.) College. West Virginia Wesleyan plays Davis-Elkins at Elkins, W. Va., today.

GENE TUNNEY is correct in his assertion that Tex Rickard all along has been partial toward Jack Dempsey in connection with the latter's bouts with the present champion, but the crack credited to Gene that Rickard had the pictures of the second fight doctored to make Dempsey look good hardly rings true. I saw the films and aside from the fact that they were run off too fast could find no fault with them. They are a true record of what happened at Chicago.

J. J. FREUND, JR., the demon organizer of basketball leagues, is down to work again, looking forward to the days when football will be out of the way and the ground will be covered with snow and the fans' attention will be focussed on the doings of the indoor court stars. Freund, who in recent years has been doing much writing for the newspapers on his favorite sport, has been quietly working on the reorganization of a number of leagues which he put together for last season, including the Allegheny County, the Commercial and Industrial, P. & O., Catholic Lyceum, Colored Industrial, Morry and Junior leagues. He also has his Tri-state Officials body together again and hopes to break last year's record of more than 1,300 assignments for his arbiters. He also has plans under way for the booking of games for Ki-Ki Cuyler's Stars, as in th last two years, and also for a team which will be headed by Gabby Hartnett, the Cubs' catcher.

FREUND has been organizing leagues and otherwise taking an active interest in basketball for more than 25 years. He organized the first Central League, back in 1907, and it functioned for six seasons. Just before the World War he organized the first West Penn League and five years ago the Catholic Lyceum League, from which the second West Penn circuit got its impetus. The local fans probably never will forget the rumpus stirred up by Freund through his staunch stand against the enforcement of the four personal fouls rule, in which he was upheld by a number of authorities on the game and assailed by countless others. Now he's ready to carry on, and, judging from his activity, he'll be on deck with just as many leagues as last year, if not more. He has a knack for organizing and keeping up the enthusiasm of the teams that become members of the circuits.

WAS or was not Frank Klaus of Braddock middleweight champion of the world in his time? Hypo Igoe, New York boxing scribe, and a darned clever one, says he wasn't, that he and Billy Papke merely claimed the title between them after Stanley Ketchel was killed and fought it out with Klaus winning and being accepted as the champion. He lost to George Chip, and from this point the title was passed on down to Al McCoy, Mike O'Dowd, Johnny Wilson, Harry Greb, Tiger Flowers and Mickey Walker, the present holder. If Klaus wasn't champion, then none of these men in the line of succession had any right to be regarded as champion. Somebody had to be champion, and Papke once held the title for a short time through the medium of knocking out Ketchel, only to be knocked out in return by Steve. When Ketchel suddenly passed out of the picture no one had a better right than Papke to claim the crown and Klaus beat Billy. You're all wet on this one, I fear, Hypo, and I'll always regard our Frank of Braddock as a one-time holder of the 160-pound championship.

A READER wants to know if Carnegie Tech ever played the University of Pennsylvania eleven in Pittsburgh. The answer is in the affirmative. The teams battled on the site of what is now Forbes Field, on October 31, 1908, and Penn won, 25 to 0. The game was arranged when Swarthmore cut out football and left Penn with an open date, which was filled by the Tartans, then in their infancy among the football-playing institutions.

Local Boxers Busy Away Tonight

Eight Pittsburgh district boxers will strut their stuff in out-of-town rings tonight, as follows:

Cuddy DeMarco, of McKeesport, vs. Harry Kahn, 10 rounds, Milwaukee.

Rudy Ceder, of Tarentum, vs. Heavy Andrews, 10 rounds, Erie.

Mike Moran, of Mt. Washington, vs. Trip Limbaco, 10 rounds, Lafayette, Ind.

Harry Taylor, of the North Side, vs. Terry Welch, of McKeesport, 10 rounds, and Eddie Carver, of the South Side, vs. Georgie Peck, of the North Side, 6 rounds, Johnstown.

Andy Tomosky, of Wilmerding, vs. Jimmy McDermott, 10 rounds, Gary, Ind.

Postpone Dundee Bout

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 28.—(AP.)—Joe Dundee, of Baltimore, welterweight champion, and Ace Hudkins, Nebraska contender, today renewed training following postponement of their title bout scheduled here tomorrow to next Thursday.

The fight was postponed yesterday with the approval of the State Boxing Commission because of an adverse weather forecast for the week-end which was supported by heavy rains that flooded Wrigley Field, where the fight was to take place.

Both fighters planned only light workouts today as they were within the 147-pound limit and considered themselves in top form.

NOTES of the BOXERS

JACK ZIVIC has turned down the Motor Square Club's offer of a third meeting with Cuddy DeMarco a week from Monday night and offered to meet any other opponent instead. It is likely the club will use some other attraction on this date.

Rudy Ceder, the Tarentum welterweight, who boxes Heavy Andrews at Erie tonight, is a benedict. He was married to Miss Anna Yanculla of Tarentum and will be accompanied to Erie today by his bride. From Erie the pair will proceed on a honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls.

Frankie Schoell and Pete Latzo, former welterweight champion, box at Buffalo tonight. Latzo fights Osk Till at Rochester, N. Y., November 18.

Bobby Garcia and Bruce Flowers, Negro lightweight, box a windup in New York tomorrow night.

Mike McTigue, who meets Mickey Walker at Chicago next Tuesday night, has been matched with Larry Gains at Toronto, November 11.

Tony Canzoneri, conqueror of Johnny Dundee in the latter's "comeback" attempt, boxes Red Chapman at Boston, November 14.

Eddie Burnbrook and Pal Silvers have been matched for November 12, at Brooklyn.

Johnny Farr and Benny (Kid) Carter, of Phoenix, Ariz., have been matched for a 10-round bout at Oakland, Cal., next Wednesday night. Bert Colima and Charley Long, Negro middleweight, will meet at the same club, November 9.

Two Cleveland flyweights, Johnny McCoy and Johnny Hughes, box at Hollywood, Cal., tonight in the final bout of the California elimination tournament to provide a successor to Fidel LaBarba as champion. McCoy scored victories over Britt Gorman and Willie Davies in the tourney.

Wolcott Langford and Jock Malone box over the 10-round route in the Chicago Coliseum tonight.

Willie Smith, South African bantamweight, has been signed for three bouts by Tex Rickard. The first will be with Bud Taylor for the title. Smith recently defeated Teddy Baldock in a 15-round bout in London.

Jimmy Goodrich, former lightweight champion, boxes Izzy Grove in a six-round bout in Buffalo next Wednesday

DONOHUE FOR KI TRADE LOOMS; SMITH MAY GO

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

A LOT of deals are in the offing in the major leagues, but with football running so warm, the wise magnates are likely to hold off on most of the trades until the close of the football season. An ordinary deal would not get much of a headline in October and November, and naturally the men that have the good of the professional game in their minds await a more propitious time for such announcements.

It does not stand, however, that October and November will pass without producing an interesting deal or two. Here in Pittsburgh the fans are all excited as to the baseball future of Ki Cuyler, not to mention several others who may go on the mart. There is an undercurrent of feeling that Hal Rhyne, Earl Smith and one or two others may be in different uniforms when the next starting bell sounds, but the home management does not care to dwell on these matters now.

DODGERS SEEK RHYNE

Manager Robinson, of the Dodgers, admits he is after Hal Rhyne. A new story to the effect that Robbie wishes to secure Rhyne so that he can send him to the minors in a deal for Harry Riconda does not stand up well. The boss of the Dodgers thinks Rhyne would help his club, and his need is for infielders.

Inasmuch as practically every team in the league would like to land Hazen Cuyler, it is not astonishing that the talk on Cuyler continues with unabated interest. New twists to the Cincinnati angle indicate that Pete Donohue, and not Hughey Critz, might come to the Pirates in return for the ball hawk.

Donohue, a headliner of the mound since he came to the Reds direct from Texas Christian University, experienced a bad year in the season just closed. Pete's failure to win consistently added to his big salary may have influenced the Red bosses to the trading point. In all events, the Pirates would be interested in a pitcher of Pete's skill. Manager Hendricks has a flock of sharpshooters who are paid princely sums.

Meantime the uncertainty as to Dave Bancroft's successor in Boston continues. The cloak of reliability has been thrown about a lot of wild rumors in this connection.

Bill Edwards Denies Leading Snake Dance

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—(AP.)—A "tradition" of years standing that Big Bill Edwards always leads the Princeton snake dance after a big Tiger football victory evaporated today when the bulky Princeton captain of 1899 declared, "I never led a snake dance in my life."

Comment which arose when Big Bill's generous form was not discerned in the vanguard of the victorious procession at Schoellkopf Field at Ithaca Saturday led to inquiry and the information that it was all a myth.

PATRICK GRANT DIES

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 28.—(AP.)—Patrick Grant, former Harvard football player noted golfer and prominent in banking circles here, was killed today by a fall from the fifth story window of his office building. He was about 40 years old.

Bankers Show Aversion To Secretary Hughes

By B. C. FORBES

HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 28.

"HUGHES is too old and cold." That's how one of the many bankers attending the convention of the American Bankers' Association put it—and that voices a rather general sentiment, not only among southern bankers, but others. He continued:

The South would rather see Hoover nominated than any other Republican. He is popular through the south, especially since he took hold so energetically of flood relief. But the south doesn't think he would appeal to the northwest and doubts therefore whether he will be chosen.

Vice President Dawes is regarded by many bankers as very much of a possibility, even a probability. Many view him as the leading contender.

Lowden is rarely mentioned.

Said one influential New York banker: "The Republican nomination will be made about 3 o'clock in the morning in a room thick with tobacco smoke. It isn't likely to be any of the favorites, but a dark horse. It might be Nick Longworth."

ANALYZED, banking opinion veers more towards Hoover than any other candidate. President Coolidge is never mentioned even as a remote possibility.

"GOVERNOR SMITH'S chances look better now than they are likely to look when the convention meets. He has attained a certain popularity in the south—or rather is the only man at all preminently in the Democratic field at the moment. But the south doesn't want so wet a standard bearer. It isn't in love with a New Yorker as a candidate, and religion still is a factor, although it isn't now considered proper to mention that fact."

That summarizes the majority opinion among the Democratic bankers I have been canvassing.

Scarcely one banker has ventured a prediction that Smith would win if nominated.

"IF NOT Smith, then whom is the lightning likely to strike?" I have been asking.

Head-shaking and shoulder-shrugging often constituted the reply. Among bankers Governor Ritchie of Maryland is well thought of as a man, but as one expressed it, "he has the double disadvantage of being a wet and an easterner."

So it comes that there is talk of a dark horse Democrat also.

Instead of "Al and Cal" it now appears as if it may be neither.

There is one Democrat that would be satisfactory to both Democratic and Republican bankers, namely, Owen D. Young. But doubts are expressed that the great mass of people have yet reached the point where they would look with favor upon a representative of big business, no matter how high his character and ability.

So there you are—or rather, so there you are not.

THE convention proceedings move along smoothly, uneventfully. That is exactly what was desired. It was feared that Senator Glass who could not fulfill his promise to come and speak, might start a rumpus by attacking the Federal Reserve Board's recent overruling of the Chicago Reserve Bank's refusal to cut its rediscount rate. His absence, therefore, caused some relief.

Here is the banker's program:

They do not desire any showdown over the Reserve Board's powers at this time. They want the law left exactly as it is. Meanwhile, the most earnest effort will be made to strengthen the personnel of the board. The selection of a very able, middle-western banker as the new governor—Roy A. Young—was the first step.

Our bankers are hopeful that by building up a board of conspicuous weight, its rulings in the future will be both wise and satisfactory to all responsible opinion. Opposition is very strong to tampering with the present law, so as to legalize a go-as-you-please policy by each and every one of the 12 reserve banks. Bankers dread politics.

TESTIMONY concerning agricultural improvement grows. Nature, apparently, is spiking Haugen-McNaryism.

CONGRESS is not expected to get beyond first base with its proposed corporation baiting.

IN short, America's bankers are not greatly troubled over any phase of the outlook—except, perhaps, in speculative Wall Street.

BEARS SUCCEED IN ATTACK ON STOCK

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—(AP.)—Selling pressure, which had been intermittent in the stock market since the long decline last week was checked, was resumed in a more extensive manner today. Encouraged by success in creating an air of nervousness in speculative circles by their ability to pound down important stocks, bears forged around and managed to uncover other spots where effective support also was lacking.

With a good deal of gloomy gossip regarding the status of current and prospective earnings, and sharp depreciation in September operating income of important railroad systems, bullish operators found it difficult to hold a following even when they had managed to start prices moving upward at the outset. Early advances of 1 to 3 points, inspired in large part by the big reduction in brokers' loans, were transformed into losses of as much, or more, when the selling wave swept the market.

Confidence in the soundness of fundamental conditions was reflected in the heavy accumulation of particular stocks, which ordinarily move widely, but efforts to realize in some issues at the higher prices disclosed a rather thin market. This was illustrated by the percentage fall of 20 points in Rossia Insurance after attaining a new peak figure.

Chesapeake and Ohio and Reading, with losses of 3 and 4 points respectively, were outstanding weak spots in the railroad section. Some of the week's lowest prices were reached here and there, notably in United States Steel, General Electric and General Railway Signal.

Warren Brothers was an outstanding exception, moving up 11½ points to a new maximum.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—The cotton market opened easy today at a decline of 17 to 28 points under further liquidation, local and southern selling, promoted by relatively easy Liverpool cables, and reports of continued good weather over the South.

December eased off to 20.53c and March to 20.75c, but demand absorbed offerings at those figures, and the market steadied up on buying which was said to include a considerable trade demand from abroad. December rallied to 20.53c, active months generally showing recoveries of 10 or 12 points from the lowest by the end of the first hour.

Private cables reported local and continental liquidation in a somewhat overbought market at Liverpool, but that the current month had rallied there on trade calling and buying by importers.

The market was fairly steady within 8 or 10 points of yesterday's closing quotations on some further trade buying and covering. The demand was not active, however, and prices eased toward midday, when there seemed to be a little more local and southern selling. January contracts, which had sold up to 20.78c on the early rally eased off to 20.58c with the general market showing net declines of about 29 to 36 points at midday.

Metal Market.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—Standard copper, spot and futures, £56 7s 6d; electrolytic copper, spot, £62 12s 6d; futures, £62 17s 6d. Tin—Spot, £262 10s; futures, £259 17s 6d. Lead—Spot, £21 15s; futures, £21 2s 6d. Zinc—Spot, £26 15s; futures, £26 7s 6d.

Share Prices Steady In Local Market

Trading was in moderate volume during the early session on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today, with prices holding steady and the bulk of the business taking place in Standard Sanitary Manufacturing common and Lone Star Gas. Initial transactions in both issues were practically unchanged from the price levels prevailing on the close Thursday.

Announcement of the three-for-one split-up of the Standard Sanitary shares stimulated interest in the stock, but during the early trading there was sufficient supply to prevent any marked advance. Most of the stock handled during the forenoon changed hands around 104, the price to which it rallied yesterday following a rather sudden drop from 105 to 102. The steady demand noted in Lone Star all week was again in evidence with the stock pointing upward from the previous close but still fractionally under the high established on the bulge Thursday.

Uncertainty over the dividend rate the new Standard Sanitary shares will carry caused some hesitation as the day wore on and the price slipped back slowly from the opening figure. There was no noticeable weakness, however, as the general opinion is that the new stock will receive $2 a year, which would mean a yield of close to 6 per cent at prevailing prices.

Lone Star Gas also met a little selling in the afternoon, but took the offerings easily on a moderate downturn from the morning's best level.

$2,000,000 November 1, 1947—Price 100, Yield 6.25%

A letter from Mr. William Randolph Hearst, President of Hearst Publications, Incorporated, is summarized as follows:

Business and Property: Hearst Publications, Incorporated, owns all outstanding capital stocks, except directors' qualifying shares, of the subsidiary companies publishing the following well established newspapers:

The San Francisco Examiner . . . (Est. 1880)
San Francisco Call & Post . . . (Est. 1856-74)
The Los Angeles Examiner . . . . (Est. 1903)
The Los Angeles Herald . . . . . . (Est. 1911)
Oakland Post-Enquirer . . . . . . (Est. 1886)

These newspapers are among the foremost in their respective territories and each represents an important unit in the nation-wide chain of Hearst publications. Their present combined net paid daily circulation averages 920,079.

Purpose: The proceeds from these Bonds will be used: to retire $7,400,000 principal amount of First Mortgage and Collateral Trust 6½% Serial Gold Bonds, being the amount now outstanding of the original issue of $12,000,000, dated May 1, 1924; to acquire the entire capital stock of Post-Intelligencer Company, publishing the Seattle Post-Intelligencer; towards liquidating the floating debt of the subsidiaries, and towards the acquisition by them of necessary plant and mechanical equipment, including plants to satisfactorily house the San Francisco Examiner and the Oakland Post-Inquirer, now estimated to cost approximately $2,250,000; or for other corporate purposes.

Security: These Bonds, in the opinion of counsel, will be (1) a direct obligation of Hearst Publications, Incorporated; (2) the joint and several obligation of its subsidiary companies and (3) will be secured by a first mortgage lien on real estate, buildings, equipment and other fixed assets now owned or hereafter acquired. (4) They will be additionally secured by pledge under a collateral deposit agreement of all the stocks, exclusive of directors' qualifying shares, of subsidiary companies, and (5) by the unconditional guarantee of William Randolph Hearst as to the due and punctual payment of both principal and interest.

Assets: Consolidated balance sheet of the Hearst Publications, Incorporated and subsidiaries, including the Post-Intelligencer Company, as of September 11, 1927, prepared by independent auditors, giving effect to increased capitalization, recent appraisals and the present financing, shows current assets of $9,130,987, and current liabilities of $2,029,244. Including assets (value of Associated Press franchises and circulation), in addition to physical and current, which are of basic value to successful newspapers, a conservative valuation of the property and business to be owned by the Hearst Publications, Incorporated and its subsidiaries is in excess of $60,000,000. The conservative value of the physical property owned is about $11,000,000, of which amount over $7,850,000 represents real estate and buildings located in established business districts in Los Angeles, San Francisco and Oakland.

Earnings: Consolidated earnings of the Company and its present subsidiaries as prepared by independent auditors and those of Post-Intelligencer Company as officially reported were as follows:

Calendar Year	Revenue	Net Income after Depreciation, all taxes and interest paid other than bond interest
1927 (Jan. 1 to Sept. 11)	$20,641,532	$3,608,312*
1926	29,270,861	5,277,229
1925	26,748,645	4,566,667

*In excess of the corresponding period of 1926 and it is expected that the earnings for the full year 1927 will exceed those for 1926.

Average annual revenues for the three periods above indicated amounted to $28,437,213, and the average net income after depreciation, all taxes and interest paid other than bond interest amounted to $4,990,062. Annual interest requirement on the total funded debt will be $1,250,000.

Management: The present management will continue to operate the Company's affairs.

A circular more fully descriptive of the issue will be sent upon request

Dated November 1, 1927. Interest payable semi-annually May 1 and November 1 at the office of the Trustee, The Anglo & London Paris National Bank of San Francisco and at the offices of Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc. in Chicago and New York, without deduction for Federal income taxes now or hereafter lawfully deductible at the source not in excess of 2%. Coupon bonds in denominations of $1,000, $500 and $100. Redeemable, at the option of the Company, as a whole or in part at any time on 45 days' published notice at 105 on or prior to November 1, 1928, thereafter at ¼% less for each expired year or portion thereof.

These Bonds are offered when, as and if issued and accepted by us and subject to approval of counsel. Interim Receipts later exchangeable for Definitive Bonds will be ready for delivery on or about November 9, 1927. All statements herein are official or are based on information which we regard as reliable, and while we do not guarantee them, we ourselves have relied upon them in the purchase of this security.

FUGITIVE HELD FOR MURDER

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 28.—Aturo Ferrari, aged 37, who made his escape and has not been located, was held for the murder of Frank Shaurer, aged 35, brother-in-law of Andy Cutler, center on the University of Pittsburgh football team, at an inquest conducted by Coroner William Greenlee at Fredericktown, the scene of the shooting. Ferrari is said to have been jealous of Shaurer's attentions to his wife. Last Friday night Shaurer was at the Ferrari home with some others and wine had been served. Ferrari tried to stab Shaurer, but was prevented. Securing a revolver, Ferrari waited outside his home until Shaurer was departing, shooting him as he stepped out of the door.

Don't confuse Balkite "AB" with so-called radio socket powers

For the "A" circuit Balkite "A"

Exactly like Balkite "AB" but for the "A" circuit only. Price $35.00. Enables owners of Balkite "B" to make a complete light socket installation at low cost.

The new Balkite "AB" replaces both "A" and "B" batteries and supplies radio current from the light socket. It is not to be confused with so-called radio socket powers. It contains no battery in any form, no relay, nor any other accessories. It puts an end forever to run-down radio power. It delivers even uniform current to the set at all times.

This new complete unit operates only during reception. It is the most economical of all sources of radio power. There is no trickle charging when it is not in use. It requires practically no attention, is unaffected by standing idle, is entirely noiseless and has nothing to wear out or replace—a permanent piece of equipment.

Two models, 135 volts, $64.50. 180 volts, $74.50. Your dealer will recommend the one you need. Fansteel Products Company, Inc., North Chicago, Illinois.

BUGS BAER Says

LINDBERGH celebrated his trip across the Atlantic by eating a sandwich and doing no talking for the entire trip.

He has just completed another looping journey and made 150 speeches at 60 banquets.

It doesn't take us long to spoil a good man. Now, every time Lindbergh scoffs a sandwich he will probably insist on making an after-dinner speech.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER.

He flew only 22,500 miles this time.

We guess he must be tuning up for something important.

The lady bugs who are flying in Lindbergh's footsteps are not doing so well. Ruth Elder broke Lindbergh's sandwich record by nibbling at a condensed lip stick and powdering her nose when she got thirsty.

Ruth almost got across the lagoon and is quite a heroine even though some dowager chaperons on Park avenue thinks it terrible that Ruth should start out with an American flier and finish the trip with the captain of a Dutch tanker.

Mrs. Grayson's skip-stop to Northern Europe started very nicely. She traveled 500 miles and then changed her mind. Which is her privilege.

It isn't quite ladies' day on the Atlantic yet.

Those two girls have more nerve than we could borrow off the light brigade. Although the Atlantic has been flown it will be some years before this ride is a walk-back.

When the time comes in trans-Atlantic travel when you can pull a bell-rope, and that yank on the bell-rope means something, why, then we will be there.

ON "WEAK MOMENTS"

MOST men have their WEAK moments,
But it SEEMS they get OVER them QUICKLY,
And the business of
Their LIFE goes on
As BEFORE.
Many WOMEN, too, have THEIR weak moments,
But SOME of them NEVER Get over them.
They ENJOY them so Much that they EXTEND Them INDEFINITELY.
For MANY women have found
That when they were WEAKEST, they often
Made their STRONGEST APPEAL.
And many have PROFITED
By THIS knowledge.
It seems GIRLS no longer
FAINT, WEEP or THROW Themselves into FITS. They have TOO much
SAVOIR FAIRE.
If they fall NOW,
They fall into a STRONG
MAN'S arms. And, if WEAK—they STAY there.

Fear Magnifies Everything

Look with Your Own Eyes, Not Frightened, and You Will Win.

There are millions of men, women and children who need the lesson that this picture teaches.

The man is tied, hands and feet, with a weak thread that he could break in a moment.

But he looks at it through the MAGNIFYING GLASS OF FEAR, the tiny thread becomes a huge cable, and he sits in despair, not trying to free himself.

This is not exaggerated, but a real picture, a picture of the life of more than half of all human beings.

Successful men have succeeded BECAUSE THEY DID NOT FEAR.

The entire human race has advanced slowly, but surely, because gradually, as a race, it has got rid of fears innumerable.

All early governments, literature and religions were based upon fear.

Every storm had its vicious demons, every cave its threatening spirits. The wind, the lightning, earthquakes, all were enemies.

The comet was an effort of Divine power to punish the human race, already punished enough by its own conscience and its foolish terrors.

Little by little, the race as a whole and the nations separately have grown away from these fears.

When plague breaks out, men no longer fall on their knees and weep: they clean the streets, wipe out the cesspools, enforce common-sense laws.

But in the life of the private individual fear, uncertainty, lack of self-confidence are reproduced millions of times as in this cartoon.

This little picture is one of the best cartoons ever published in this newspaper—a cartoon needed by nearly all of us.

The words that come most easily to the average man's lips are, "I CAN'T."

He says that because he is looking through the magnifying glass of fear.

Men stick in a rut because they fear to get out.

Fear keeps us from going forward.

Fear keeps up from thinking for ourselves.

Fear makes of death a horror and a torment to millions, when it is less to be feared than a peaceful sleep.

Fear deadens the mind, weakens the heart, squeezes the will—and most of us live with this magnifying glass in our hands.

If you can throw down this fear glass, smash it at once and for all, and break loose the threads that tie you, you will find life more nearly worth while.

What is there that a man need really fear?

A short time ago he did not exist. The worst that can happen is that in a short time from now he will again not exist.

A man who is not afraid cannot be hurt.

A man who is afraid dies half a dozen different deaths every day.

If he HAS nothing, he worries and fears for the future.

If he has something, he fears and worries about what he has.

This is a good picture; lucky the man who learns its lesson.

Her Well Trained Voice

It Calls Chickens.

Education is never wasted. Mrs. Lon Ware, of Mexico, Missouri, had her voice cultivated for grand opera in Chicago. Then she married a farm machinery salesman. She has just won the chicken calling contest of her home town, beating twenty-three competitors, with her high pitched soprano "chick, chick, chickee."

Mr. E. H. Vetter won the hog calling championship with his "Pooee, piggeee."

There is just as much glory, and more open air delight in calling "Chick, chick, chickee" to the hens, or "Pooee, Piggeee" to the pigs, than in singing high notes to some of the ladies and gentlemen that attend grand opera.

Bouts of Meaning

Two recent engagements in man's persistent war on disease offer the promise of far-reaching benefits.

The savants of the laboratory have not yet isolated the germ of infantile paralysis, but they have classified it, the first step toward finding an antitoxin.

And now from Rochester's new medical school, through tests at Bellevue Hospital, comes a treatment for erysipelas which cuts its death rate in half and speeds the period of recovery.

Fistic "battles of the century" look cheap when compared with such scientific conquests for human betterment.

Ginger Ale and Cracked Ice Tabooed

Garrett P Serviss Says:

The Moon, Alive and Dead

A READER in Maryland writes me about the resemblance that many parts of the moon's surface present to what would be seen on the earth if our oceans were drained off, and the peaks, pinnacles and ridges on the sea bottom, which now project above water in the form of islands and archipelagoes, were left towering out of a lifeless sun-baked desert. The suggestion from this comparison of appearances is, that the moon once had oceans, and with them sea and land life like the earth.

I wish I could believe that this was once so. The moon would then appear to the mental eye not as a rough surface of bare rock, but as a vast tomb inscribed with wonderful records of an extinct world of life. Then one could imagine registered somewhere on the moon the story of the astonishment and awe with which its former inhabitants regarded their great neighbor world in the sky, which might have been still in the fiery throes of geological birth when the lunarians had attained their zenith as a living race.

Thoughts like these will come to any imaginative observer who studies the speaking landscapes of the moon with a telescope. The curving shores of the "Sea of Serenity," the "Sea of Showers" and the "Bay of Rainbows" are fascinating with their suggestions of broad, sunny branches backed by towering mountain ranges, and interrupted by rocky headlands enclosing harbors, while behind in the chaos of peaks and ridges, like Cotopaxi in the Andes, yawns here and there a mighty volcano, its empty throat stretched wide, filled only with black shadow.

Pour waters upon the moon to fill its dry sea basins, and enwrap it with a life-sustaining atmosphere, and without another change in its condition, you might make it a diminutive rival of the earth, all the more charming for its very petiteness. With a force of gravity only one-sixth that of the earth, what a world it would be for aviation! Everybody would fly. Its small Atlantics and Pacifics would be but little more than pleasure ponds. Aerial fleets glowing with color would skim and circle over and around them like crowds of fluttering butterflies.

But science offers another picture of the lunar world. Without positive assertion concerning its possible former state, science avers that not only has the moon practically no atmosphere today, but that it is, so to speak, constitutionally incapable of retaining an atmosphere, which also means that it can not retain water. The trouble is that the moon does not possess sufficient gravitative force.

A simple calculation, based on unquestionable facts, shows that the moon cannot hold permanently within its control any particle imbued with a velocity exceeding a mile and a half per second. Now the molecules of both oxygen and nitrogen, the constituents of our air, possess a maximum velocity of vibration exceeding that amount—1.8 miles for oxygen, 2 miles for nitrogen. Even carbon dioxide, so essential to plant life, has a maximum molecular velocity of 1.6 miles. Water vapor has 2.5 miles.

So, even if the moon once had an atmosphere resembling ours, it must nearly all have leaked away long ago. But, the question arises, how long might it have lasted? The average velocity of these gases would be well within the moon's power of retention. But as they became rarer, the average range of vibration would increase.

We may imagine, then, that there may have been a comparatively brief period in its earlier history when the moon had the means of sustaining life, though such life was overhung from the beginning by the dark clouds of an unavoidable fate.

THOUGHTS OF THE GREAT—

The wisdom of the wise and the experience of the ages may be preserved by the quotation.—Isaac Disraeli.

I have always said and felt that true enjoyment cannot be described.

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY

The Narrow Minded

DO you condemn things merely because you do not like them?

Why should you think that persons who differ with your opinions are lacking in good judgment?

By what method of deduction have you determined that your personal ideas are the only correct ones?

Is it not that you are narrow in your perspective?

Limited experience may have given you an exalted opinion of yourself.

A more general knowledge of things would help you.

To get out and mingle more often with those who move in a different circle would benefit you.

Those who associate closely with you may allow you to have your way rather than quarrel with you.

You need contact with those who would not be backward in differing with you, and who would not spare your feelings.

Tales That Are Told

A Silencer

TWO actors who were very jealous of each other met in a hostelry. They exchanged frigid nods.

"How are you getting along?" asked one, presently.

"Pretty well," replied the other. "Still keeping alive."

The first man eyed his rival steadily for a second and then asked, casually, "What's your motive?"

A New Method

THEY met face to face in a crowded lift.

"Why, it's old Browne!" cried the man in the light suit, slapping his acquaintance on the back and causing him to frown angrily.

A desultory conversation ensued for some few minutes. Then suddenly the man in the light suit tapped Browne on the shoulder.

"Here!" he whispered. "Did you lend me 10 bob last week?"

"No," returned the other, "I didn't."

"Very well," said the effusive one, "if that's the case you'd better give it to me now."—London Answers.

Handicapped

ON the screen were two heads very close together. The adoring hero was kissing the blonde heroine, to the accompaniment of sentimental music.

A man in the cinema nudged his neighbor.

"My life has been wasted according to that," he whispered, nodding to the screen. "I've had three wives, but I never kissed any of 'em the way that feller's done it."

"It's never too late," remarked the other man, who had a sense of humor.

"It is," was the sad reply. "I'm so short-winded these days."

Something to Think About

By BRUNO LESSING

Getting Married

THE writer attended a wedding ceremony the other day. The bride was beautiful and wore a flowing white veil that established an air of hazy enchantment about her. That's the way brides should look. The groom was a good scout. That's what grooms should be. And may they ever be happy! That's that.

Before pronouncing the final words which made this couple man and wife, the officiating clergyman said:

"Marriage symbolizes a spiritual union more than it does a material or physical agreement. It signifies a community of the soul and the mind more than that of the body."

And there you have much to think about.

We all are born and we all die, but we don't ALL get married. Many refrain from marriage because they cannot find their affinity of mind or soul. Others because they cannot find sufficient physical attraction. Some, unfortunately, because they have a conscience and realize that their economic or physical condition is a drawback which they cannot overcome.

Is it not a fact, however, that the physical aspect predominates in the marriages of today? Does not the average groom select his bride because she has a beautiful face and figure? And vice versa?

Or, do you think, in most marriages, prospective brides and grooms take into careful account the cast of each other's mind and the nature of each other's soul?

Because this clergyman was absolutely right. It is only the mind and the soul of another person that you can depend upon. Physical beauty is sure to pass away. The ideal physical beauty, sung by poets for countless ages, depicted by painters, perpetuated in marble by the great sculptors and exalted by all writers, is the beauty of youth. And that beauty, in its very nature, must fade with each passing minute.

But the beauty of mind can grow. "Age cannot wither nor custom stale its infinite variety." And the beauty of soul shines more radiantly with the passing of time, just as a priceless pearl grows more lustrous with age.

By soul the writer does not mean that vague, smoky substance which, according to revivalists, departs from the body at death. He means those qualities, distinct from the intellect, such as tenderness, sympathy, unselfishness, loyalty and honesty, which are or are not a portion of each human being's make-up.

Those qualities, in their very nature, are lasting. And those who contemplate marrying would do well to heed the words of this clergyman and give more thought to those qualities than to the physical attractions of their beloved. They provide a firmer, more lasting and happier basis of married life.

New York Day by Day

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Thoughts while strolling: A grocery features "radio entertainment." What became of bread sticks in glass holders? A girl with a Persian cat on a leash. A sale of smocks. The boys are losing their summer tans. Asthmatic overfed dogs that waddle.

Those washed-out creatures in hand laundries. A horse ambulance. The sun sinks. That winey dusk—so peculiar to New York. New apartments with Indian names. A silk-hatted corn salve curb salesman. Dance hall sign: "We teach the Drowsy Drag." Dudley Field Malone, the globe trotting lawyer.

Coffee hutches with dizzy blonde waitresses. Humpty-Dumpty, Piggly-Wiggly and Cash and Carry stores. Pawn shop window card: "We live on the flat of the land." The old man on crutches who sings hymns on elevated station steps. Charcoal steaks and homemade pies. Eddie Cantor and his children.

A famous old baseball player now a movie doorkeeper. Those strained whispering groups about the entrance of an emergency hospital. A lunch stand spells barbecue—barbque. Listless children playing hop-scotch sidewalk games. Tired women leaning out windows.

The dilapidated fronts of once famous supper clubs. Graham McNamee, the radio announcer. Those discreet taxis with sliding window curtains. Another Indian prince with his trailing retinue. Air trips to Boston—$35. The lonesome clerks in the deserted orange drink stands.

Broadway begins writing its golden scrawl in the sky. And a hard-boiled street melts in a soft glow. The early movie patrons. Speakeasy bartenders in white aprons come to the door for a breath of air. Pavement pressers who stand silently on corners for hours. Hating New York and afraid to leave it.

The rush in theater ticket agencies. And the alert young clerks who use the batteries of telephones. The professorial looking lecturers beginning their "spiels" in sucker sale shops. Old Tip, who sells racing forms and spends winters along the Riviera selling flowers.

The old-fashioned sick headache is becoming obsolete. Women rarely wrap heads in towels and groan in darkened rooms with misery these days. Drug stores report little demand for headache potions. And a New York doctors says bobbed hair has brought about universal relief. He reports that out of 100 women who had periodical attacks of migraine only 18 are now sufferers. And these victims have never had their heads clipped. In other words, he believes the strain of heavy locks is almost entirely responsible for the malady.

And speaking of hair, the saddest story of the week concerns a bald gentleman who attempted to be facetious. He was at the apartment of a friend having a few fast ones before going home. His friend wears a toupee and for a joke he asked to borrow it to slip around the corner to his home wearing it. He did. His wife saw it, gave a gasp and snatching it from his head tossed it into the open fire. The wig cost $200.

* * *

The uke among the flappers and cake eaters is going the way of the puff sleeve. The new instrument of torture is a tiny concertina so popular among Russians. Any number of the younger generation have mastered the instruments and carry them around as they did the ukes.

* * *

A new Broadway racket is being worked with fair to middling success. The victim is told by a chance acquaintance in a cafe or speakeasy that the c. a. has just been fired unjustly after years of service by a certain jeweler. But he explains he got even. The proprietor is off on a trip and before the discharged employe left he re-marked everything in the shop at half price and the clerk succeeding him will not know the difference. If the sucker bites he will get the jeweler's address and likely as not make many purchases — at prices, incidentally, all out of reason for values received.

A topsy turvey world. A former boy tenor of the famous so-called John D. Rockefeller church is now featured in the Follies. And four doors away from the Follies show is where I drank my first fatal glass of beer. It is now an orange drink stand.

What Have We Gained

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The world war has been over for some time now, and the question comes up: What have we gained?

When war was in progress, property was being destroyed and thousands of lives extinguished. It was bruited about that it was all for a great purpose. It was a war to end war. It would be the final conflict between nations. They would now see how destructive and useless wars were. What has been the outcome?

At Geneva the other day the Japanese delegate, Adachi, deplored the ruinous competition in armaments, and Felix Cielens, minister from Latvia, declared that old pre-war methods were still in vogue and warned the assembly that the military budgets of 1926 amounted in Europe to a billion and a half dollars, or about the same as in 1919. He also stated that there were over three million soldiers in Europe, which is only slightly less than the number of 1919, and that the technique of armies was far greater developed than before the great war.

We are living, he declared, "under the conditions of armed peace which prevailed before the war and under a system of competitive armaments, which many of us believe will sooner or later land the world in war."

In the judgment of these experts, however, the gains of the war for the world and in world terms would be nil.

Think of Europe staggering under the burden of a billion and a half dollars for its military budgets and the support of 3,000,000 soldiers! This vast sum and these great numbers of men represent no producing capital and no producing labor. They are simply being kept for possible destructive purposes.

No wonder the world is so long in getting back on its feet when it has such a terrible handicap!

Wars have been demonstrated to be worse than useless, and spending money on them is like sowing seed in the trough of the sea. It is sheer waste.

It seems as if the combined wisdom of the world should certainly be able to hit upon some plan to abolish war, some plan to relegate the force from nations to some international body.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Old Friends

NEW friends are kindly, good and true and full of friendly ways; they know a host of things to do to brighten all the days. They lend their merriment and light, gay wings for flying hours, until the world grows fair and bright as gardens filled with flowers. For every hour of mirth and fun they come with merry smiles, as welcome as the morning sun, new friends with gracious wiles. And for each madcap, mirthful mood I greet the care-free train; but when the shadows come to brood I seek old friends again. Old friends, whose faces bring again life's bygone splendors near, with memories sweet as April rain, as April twilights dear. I love the new friends' happy ways for skies serene and blue; but I must have, for sunless days a staunch old friend or two.

THE LIFE OF THOMAS A. EDISON

Text by Arthur J. Palmer
Drawings by Frank Kuchenmeister

AMONG Edison's favorite authors are Victor Hugo, Dumas, Jules Verne, Gaboriau, and above all, Shakespeare. "Ah, there was a man with ideas," is Edison's tribute to the Bard of Avon. "He would have made a great inventor." Edison's tastes in literature show astounding variety and great breadth.

BESIDES the authors just mentioned, Edison fairly absorbs the most profound works on science, art, chemistry, industry, etc. On the other hand he is fond of reading newspapers and magazines of all types. He even reads the Police Gazette, so as to keep in touch with all walks of life.

EDISON has always been friendly toward reporters and other representatives of the press. He is ready to give "the boys" a good story when anything new "breaks." Almost always he is a source of good "copy" and there exists a high degree of good will between Edison and his newspaper friends.

WHEN time-clocks were installed at the Orange plant Edison was given card No. 1. Any morning he may have been seen punching his time, often hours earlier than his executives. Reproduced above is an Edison time card showing 95 hours of work for a week!
